Holy image appears behind the child battling leukemia 2013

Believer or not, the image behind Erin Potter, a girl battling leukemia Kirtland, is magnificent. This is certainly stunned his mother?
 "My immediate reaction is Mary, they hear us, it's there," said Jen Potter
 The Erin image running with sparklers, was taken in his garden by a friend just after the family learned that the cancer was back Erin, for the third time, and she was facing one second bone marrow transplant.
 "I do not necessarily see it as a sign that Erin is very good and I will come out of it, but it's a sign that we will take care of it," said Jen.
 19 Action News has documented the battle of cancer before Erin. Kevin Potter, his father, in fact, introduced President Obama at a campaign stop, the president spoke of the struggle of the family to remain assured of keeping alive the struggle for Erin.
 Just after the photo was taken, Erin had the transplant, and this time, she is cancer-free.
 "So you guys know that people will be skeptical and it does not necessarily bother you?" Reporter asked Brian Duffy.
 "You want people to believe whatever they want to believe when they see this picture."
 "I know she is not alone, I know we are not alone and that people who do not want to believe it, it does not matter," said Kevin Potter. "Whatever happens, you know something special and powerful was there with us."
 "I certainly have my moments where I'm falling apart and I'm terrified and I literally take my phone and I look at this picture."

Do You Believe? Holy image appears behind child battling leukemia

KIRTLAND, OH (WOIO) -

Believer or not, the image behind Erin Potter, a Kirtland girl battling leukemia, is stunning. It certainly stunned her mom. •

"My reaction immediately, it's Mary, they hear us, she's there," Jen Potter said. •

The picture of Erin, running with sparklers, was taken in her backyard by a friend just after the family learned that Erin's cancer was back, for the third time, and she was facing a second bone marrow transplant.

"I didn't necessarily see it as a sign that Erin is fine and is going to walk out of this, but it's a sign that we're watching over her," Jen added.

19 Action News has documented Erin's cancer battle before. Kevin Potter, her father, actually introduced President Obama at a campaign stop, as the president spoke of the family's fight to stay insured to keep alive the fight for Erin.

Just after the picture was taken, Erin had that transplant, and right now, she's cancer-free.

"So you guys know people are going to be skeptical and that doesn't necessarily bother you?" asked Reporter Brian Duffy. "You want people to believe whatever it is they want to believe when they see that picture."

"I know she's not alone, I know we are not alone and people who don't want to believe it, that's OK," said Kevin Potter. "Whatever happened, you know something powerful and special was there with us."

"I definitely have my moments when I'm falling apart and I'm terrified and I literally grab my phone and I stare at that picture."

The Huffington Post | By Ryan Grenoble Posted: 05/25/2013 4:17 pm EDT

A ghostly figure has stunned one family, in Kirtland, Ohio, appearing in a family photograph behind their daughter, who had been battling leukemia at the time.

That the figure in question resembles the Virgin Mary, says Erin's mom, Jen Potter, is no coincidence. "My reaction immediately, it's Mary, they hear us, she's there," she told WOIO in an interview that aired Friday. "I didn't necessarily see it as a sign that Erin is fine and is going to walk out of this, but it's a sign that we're watching over her."

The photo shows Erin running through a field with a sprinkler in each hand at night. A somewhat blurred red figure appears behind Erin's right shoulder with eyes downcast and arms extended. Some have suggested the figure resembles the Virgin Mary.

Jen's daughter, Erin, was diagnosed with leukemia in February 2007, subsequently undergoing several bone marrow transplants and three recurrent bouts of cancer. At the time the picture was taken, reports WOIO, Erin was preparing for her second transplant. She's currently cancer free.

Writes Jeni of her daughter, on her blog, "She just continues to amaze me and she shows me what it is like to be strong, to take one day - one moment - at a time. To enjoy each day that she feels good. To love each second that she and her sisters are laughing. All of our girls are my source of strength. They remind me to keep looking up."
