From waaban, or dawn, from the land of dawn, “Came the Black-Robe Chief, the Prophet, / He the Priest of Prayer, the pale-face, / With his guides and companions.” Hiawatha stood on the beach, his hand held aloft in a gesture of welcome, waiting until he heard the crunch of the canoe sliding onto the pebbles of the beach. There would be no place for Indians, no place for simple children of the forest in this new world. The future belonged to the people from the land of dawn, “the land of light and Morning!”
