Some information on my Birth angel

Find your Angel! Click here!

Born: Saturday

Presiding ArchAngel: Cassiel

Assignment: Creative Power

Daily Affirmation: "I am grateful for seas of wonder & significance"

Celestial Title: Angel of Temperance

Archangel Cassiel, Accessing the Source is his specialty. He is a manifestor born out of the understanding of desire. 'De Sire' meaning of God. He holds the power to create new realities quickly. Divine light swirls around and through this angel for he knows how to harness it so exquisitely that only greatness transpires from the vision to the physical.

Cassiel is drawn to divine frequencies and consequently presides over dolphins, and other oceanic life. Water is a divine conductor and Cassiel gathers its energy by product using it to cleanse away feelings of negativity leaving clarity available to heal, feel and reveal. Cassiel asks you to give thanks for all your blessings and in return bestows upon you the power to share your spiritual gifts with others.

Cassiel will draw you into places of worship; places where the divine is strongly present. You will feel Cassiel's presence out on the open sea, under a large oak tree, on the streets of sacred grounds (Ephesus, pyramids) and in the sanctity of your own prayer circle.

Associations & Assignments

Like any entity charged with duties and responsibilities, Archangels have certain associations of creation that are engraved in the very fibers of their etheric being. They are handed specifics to govern. It's these assignments that bring them into this dimension where they can participate with us.

Celestial Order: Seraphim

Day: Watches over those born on Saturday

Chakra: Crown (7th)

Color: Violet, gold, white

Planetary assignment: Governs Saturn but spends a lot of time on Earth

Main Issue: Spirituality

Sense: Beyond Self

Fragrances/Incense/Oils: Lavender, Frankincense, Rosewood

Crystals: Amethyst, Clear quartz, Diamond

Life Lesson: Selflessness

Altar suggestions: A smooth glass vase containing fresh white and violet flowers; a spiritual gift from a loved one; a diamond or clear crystal gem to enhance spiritual communication; clear glass bowl of water containing iridescent glass pebbles and rose floating candles; single white taper candle; clear quartz crystal; prayer or message book and of course, a Prayer Chest.

Cassiel is my Angel as well i have seen him through out my years growing up! I can only recall visually seeing him about 3 times ! Indeed he is a jen with a beard and astrides with a dragon ~ now when i've seen him i remember how he looked half man and half dragon with a powerful presence! I must say he startled me with amazement of the power all around him! He is the Angel of tears and the ruler of the 7th heaven all the other heavens has 2 rulers Cassiel is the only ruler of the 7th heaven ! I think of him being the Wizard of all Angels along with his selflessness he portrays the WILL we all have and for us who has Cassiel as our guide were gifted with our Will to fulfill our mission here on Earth ! Where theres a WILL there is away!GOD BLESS YOU Kimmy ~ peaches (my nick name) ~~~~<@

Thank you for sharing the information about the Archangel Cassiel. I have just learned he is also my angle. I grew as a christian, we taught that we do not communicate with angels except to God, Jesus and Holly spirit. When I recall, I have seen many angels even though I told not to communicate with.

I am also a Christian. Isn't it funny that most of Psalms, and other Christian prayers and songs sing about angels, and life, and love, and friendship. I am a true believer in Jesus saved me from sin. I also believe, The Father, Son, and Holy Spirit gave us many angels in heaven and here on earth to guide us, look after us, and sometimes just help us relax. Our relationship with God, is ours, and no one else should pass judgment on how we choose to live. Jesus Himself did not want anyone to tell him when and how to pray. I cannot believe he would judge me on asking my Angels, or Mary, or my neighbor for a helping hand, and a hug.

Thank you for visiting.

Daily Law of Attraction Quotation

As you practice your more positive, better-feeling story, in time your pleasure will become the dominant vibration within you, and then as you couple your pleasure with your means of earning, the two will blend perfectly and enhance each other.

There is no better way to earn money than to do the things that you love to do. Money can flow into your experience through endless avenues. It is not the choice of the craft that limits the money that flows—but only your attitude toward money.

Honest Heart

An honest heart is an open heart. If we are dishonest in any way with ourselves or with others, it means we are in hiding. There is a wall, a barrier behind which we conceal something of ourselves. Subtle tension will be our companion, and while most of us learn to live with it, it drains our energy and tightens our muscles. On the other hand don't be too honest with others - feel their pulse - sometimes others are not ready to hear what's in your heart. But know that when you are honest you will experience a level of inner relaxation that you had forgotten was even possible.

Life is about trusting your feelings and taking chances, losing and finding happiness, learning from the past, and realizing people change...

People are not disturbed by things, but by the view they take of them.

"When you change the way you look at things , the things you look at change ."

Some times letting go of that which no-longer serves us not only heals us but opens doors to that which awaits. To be able to move forward, you must learn to simply let go of the past and surrender. To clearly focus will help us clear some of the resistance caused by the fear and uncertainty around our ability to survive, to weather the storm of life's lessons.

Matthew 5:16 In the same way, let your light shine before others, that they may see your good deeds and glorify your Father in heaven.

Cassiel

Cassiel (Hebrew קַפְצִיִּאל Qafsiel Kaziel) is the Latin name of an archangel in post-biblical Judeo-Christian religion, particularly that of the Kabbalah. Unlike many other angels, Cassiel is known for simply watching the events of the cosmos unfold with little interference. He is the angel of solitude and tears, and is said to preside over the deaths of kings.^[1]

He is often included in lists as being one of the seven archangels and often associated with the Seventh Heaven.

In mythology

In Jewish mysticism and Mesopotamian mythology, Cassiel is associated with the planet Saturn and the direction north. He is the controller of the moon.^[2]

In the magical text Berit Menuchah, Cassiel is associated with Kefitzat Haderech, the ability to travel quickly through space. Magic spells using his name are cast to create destruction, to scatter crowds, to cause a person to wander aimlessly, or to fall from a position of power.^[3]

Ancient Hebrew amulets bearing his name are used to drive away one's enemies. The words on the charm are written with the blood of a bird and then tied to the foot of a dove. The dove is then set to flight, taking one's enemy with it. Should the bird refuse to fly, it is a sign that one's enemies won't depart either.

Archangel Cassiel can also be called: Casiel, Cassiel, Castiel, Mocoton, Kafziel, Qafsiel, Qaphsiel, Qaspiel, Quaphsiel. He is also known as the angel of temperance.

In the Jewish Kabbalah

In rabbinic literature, the Kabbalah is the only one that relates the identity of angels with the souls. There are a few different views on how many classes of angels there actually are. One of the older views, the most widely known view, consists of angels being divided into seven classes. This allows the number of archangels connect to the heavens. Another view states that there are only three true archangels due to the fact that there are only three heavens. This view states that the number of heavens corresponds with the number of angels. When these two are combined, you come up with a third view that states that there are ten classes of angels. Another theory pertains to the names of the archangels to the planets. Archangels are also referred to as the "chief angels" and called the "angels of the presence."^[4]

Archangels are connected to a level of sephiroth, the Kabbalah contains 10 levels of sephiroth each holding different meanings and responsibilities. Each sephira is assigned a name and a number and becomes associated with an archangel, a name of God, an angelic order, and a planetary force. These levels are sometimes referred to as Vessels of Light because they are representative of the progression of the realms in which they are connected. The sephiroth are God's means of interacting with the physical world.^[5]

In Popular Culture

- Cassiel is a character in the webcomic Misfile.
- Cassiel is the main protagonist in The Outcast Season series by Rachel Caine
- The character of Cassiel appears in Wim Wenders's film Wings of Desire, as well as the U.S. remake, City of Angels. Cassiel, played by Otto Sander in the original and Andre Braugher in the remake, watches with considerable ambivalence as his friend becomes human. In the sequel Faraway, So Close!, Cassiel himself becomes human. Nick Cave wrote Cassiel's Song as part of the music for that film.
- In the mythology of Jacqueline Carey's Kushiel's Legacy series of novels, Cassiel is one of the angels who follow the Blessed Elua in his wanderings. Unlike the other angels, Cassiel remains true to the commandments of God and does not intermingle with mortals. Instead, he remain's Elua's "Perfect Companion," devoted only to protecting and serving him in celibacy. Cassiel gives his name to the Cassiline Brotherhood, an order of celibate warrior priests, who are employed as bodyguards by the royalty and nobility of Terre d'Ange. Their motto is "Protect and Serve."
- In The CW series Supernatural, the angel "Castiel" was inspired by Cassiel.^[6] Initially, like Cassiel, he is merely an observer of the events on Earth. He refuses to interfere unless ordered to by the heavenly host. Slowly he begins to deviate from this; eventually becoming a full-on rebel and fallen angel, but always retains his admiration for the human race, especially Dean Winchester (Jensen Ackles)^[7] with whom he forms a "Profound Bond."^[8]
- In the Buffy the Vampire Slayer episode "Tough Love", Cassiel is mentioned in the holding spell Willow casts on Glory.^[9]
- In the Old Kingdom series by Garth Nix, Cassiel is mentioned to be a previous, absent-minded Abhorsen. Lirael wields his bells in Lirael and Abhorsen.
- In "Flight of Angels", the soundtrack to the game Splice by Cipher Prime Studios, Cassiel is the name of a song.
- In the game Darkness 2, a darkness sub-machine gun, known as the Kafziel, can be found in the final level if Jackie Escadato chooses to go to Hell to save Jenny.
- In the Civilization IV game mod "Fall from Heaven", Cassiel is angel who serves the god of balance, and also a leader of civilization called Grigori
