Daily Kabbalah Tip

Advice in the daily Kabbalah lesson is recommended, practical tasks for advancing spiritually

Egoistic Dissemination

Dissemination will bring a person to a good place.

I am not sure that making an intention before you speak is essential when you speak to people who are not studying the wisdom of Kabbalah. If you are passing on the material to others, you bring them closer, but to them it isn't important with what your intention is. They advance in the directions of those same ideas and this is what causes them to become closer. Actually their becoming closer works on you in return and in the correct manner, despite your egoistic intentions. The learner is full of "for His sake," has exertion "for His sake." The instructor is "not for His sake," and with no exertion "for His sake." The main thing is that the material that you are passing on is correct. Your inner thought of clarifying if you have the correct intention is completely enough. Dissemination with all the intentions will bring a person, in the end, to a good place.

The Angel, "Duma"

On the spiritual meaning of "Angel Duma" as mentioned in The Book of Zohar

"Angel Duma" is a special force that always judges and examines us. It is called "Duma" from the word "similar" because in relation to it, we examine to what extent we are similar, i.e., deserving or not deserving of the spiritual degree to which we must rise. This means that we are speaking of a measure, a special value that in relation to it we must work in spirituality.

Dumah (angel)

For other uses, see Dumah (disambiguation).

Dumah (Heb. דומה "silent") is an angel mentioned in Rabbinical literature. Dumah is a popular figure in Yiddish folklore. I. B. Singer's Short Friday (1964), a collection of stories, mentions Dumah as a "thousand-eyed angel of death, armed with a fiery rod or flaming sword". Dumah is the Aramaic word for silence.

The angel

Duma(h) or Douma (Aramaic) is the angel of silence and of the stillness of death.^[1]

Dumah is also the tutelary angel of Egypt, prince of Hell, and angel of vindication. The Zohar speaks of him as having "tens of thousands of angels of destruction" under him, and as being "Chief of demons in Gehinnom [i.e., Hell] with 12,000 myriads of attendants, all charged with the punishment of the souls of sinners."^[2] In the Babylonian legend of the descent of Istar into Hades, Dumah shows up as the guardian of the 14th gate.^[3]

- Dumah is a city associated with the descendants of Ishmael that was known to the Assyrian empire as Adummatu and is known in modern times as Dumat Al-Jandal.^{[4][5]}
- Dumah is a boss in the video game Legacy of Kain: Soul Reaver. He is the vampire brother of Raziel, and along with Turel is the one who cast him into the Abyss. In reference to the meaning of his name, when finally confronted, he has been killed by vampire hunters, and his corpse is sitting silently on a throne.
- Doma (a variation of Dumah) the Angel of Silence is a card in the card game Yu-Gi-Oh.
- Dumah makes an appearance in DC Comic's The Sandman series, specifically "The Season of Mists". He, along with Ramiel, become the keepers of Hell after Lucifer abandons his throne.
- Dumat, from the video game Dragon Age: Origins, is named after this angel. He is addressed in game lore as the Dragon of Silence.
