Forecast February-May 2013 for Earth Booms, 8+ quakes, Sun Agenda, Magnetic field.. all based on previous statistical history & predictions.

What you're about to read is a historical data and statistical based forecast.. along with accurate predictions I've previously made using the very data.

The information shows during a time frame of the past three years large earthquakes the SAME magnetic field anomalies, SAME solar/spaceweather reports and SAME Auroras occurred year after year.. all matching to the same day!

As for example on March 11, 2011 (Japan 9.0) and March 11th, 2012 Earth's magnetic field was sideways/backwards and spaceweather reports were nearly the same both years in a row.

The same kind of activity went for EVERY MEGA Earthquake three years in a row....

Also including: Earth's magnetic field doing the same thing to the day, along with the same "solar activity" and Auroras to the day. Sounds crazy but it's all going to be proven here.

I'm taking this thread very seriously so I will also be posting screen shots of previous predictions I've made that have come true in using this data and awareness of what's going on that isn't random.

Such as predicting on exact dates when geomagnetic storms would occur, including pressure on Earth's magnetosphere and increased specific auroras.

I also predicted days before hand exactly when NASA/NOAA would say there would be a "Solar eruption" to cover the actual different source that's sending charged particles directed towards the Earth which again is NOT the Sun.

My work is not based upon Calendars, galactic alignments, special zodiac dates, Timewave, fancy numbers, religion predictions or other "he said/she said" stuff.

I compile data and statistical information of things actually going on with the Earth. Then I see if any of the data is NOT random, when it's not random then I use the patterns of specific changes to make a forecast.

In that people actually see for themselves I'm not making stuff up, they see exactly what I see, how I compiled and made a forecast.

I'm going to document everything here, all the data and predictions before making the forecast so you can see for yourself how very real all this is.. including the whole "Solar agenda" BS that is indeed going on.

This thread will prove something far larger is happening to our Earth/Solar System that we're not being told and we're shortly about to see the evidence on Earth once again in the coming months.

Starting off with the basics to help better understand the data I looked around these dates to find anything abnormal going going:

2/27/2010 - 8.8 Chile
3/11/2011 - 9.0 Japan
4/11/2012 - 8.6 & 8.2 Indonesia.

Starting in early 2012 Earth Booms globally were reported by the Media but didn't last the whole year through.

In 2012 Earth Booms were first documented and recorded by the Media in January:

Beyond all this we've had an increase of dolphins and whales beaching themselves plus birds falling from the sky.. animals migrating to the wrong locations etc. (Which can be easily looked up but I want to get to the point) Many animals have magnetic field sensory and use it for coordination, migration etc. Here are a couple articles that explain in case you didn't know:
[\[link to www.ks.uiuc.edu\]](http://www.ks.uiuc.edu)
[\[link to webcoist.momtastic.com\]](http://webcoist.momtastic.com)

So studying Earth's magnetic field became the way to go, which I have done for about a year now. I decided to check magnetic field data and spaceweather for around the time of the mega quakes to find PROOF there is an outside force causing this to the Earth! Plus being it's been consecutive years of anomalies that means I had to find proof none of this activity is random, that Earth is being affected by perhaps a gravitational magnetic force affecting the Earth during same time frames yearly. (Orbit connection?)
Not only is that proof is here but much much more!

So lets get it started!

First of all.. here's what Earth's normal magnetic field looks like. Notice the field lines of the North Pole flow up, out and away from the Earth. The field lines of the South Pole flow down, out and away from the Earth.

Here are some links to see magnetic field data from NASA:
[\[link to ccmc.gsfc.nasa.gov\]](http://ccmc.gsfc.nasa.gov)
[\[link to iswa.gsfc.nasa.gov:8080\]](http://iswa.gsfc.nasa.gov:8080)

So if the Earth around the time of the Mega Earthquakes is being affected by a gravitational magnetic force that is emitting protons in some way I should see that evidence as well as a pattern develop and be able have predicted activity previously.

Lets start back in 2010, the 8.8 Chile Earthquake on February 27th [link to earthquake.usgs.gov]

EARTH DODGES A BULLET: New sunspot 1163 doesn't look very impressive, but the M3-class flare it unleashed yesterday was absolutely spectacular. Click to play a movie recorded by NASA's Solar Dynamics Observatory:

When the eruption occurred, sunspot 1163 was behind the sun's eastern limb. Nevertheless, enough ultraviolet radiation spilled over to create waves of ionization in Earth's upper atmosphere. Low-frequency radio signals, which bounce off of ionized air, were strongly disturbed, as shown in this plot from a VLF monitoring station in Slovakia. Otherwise, Earth was little affected. Plasma clouds produced by the blast did not come our way.

Sunspot 1163 will continue turning toward Earth in the days ahead setting the stage for more potent geo-effects if the eruptions continue. Stay tuned

Note February 25th spaceweather said there was a solar "eruption yesterday the 24th" in 2010/11! and it's an "unknown and possible" if it will cause "geomagnetic storms and auroras" in the coming days.

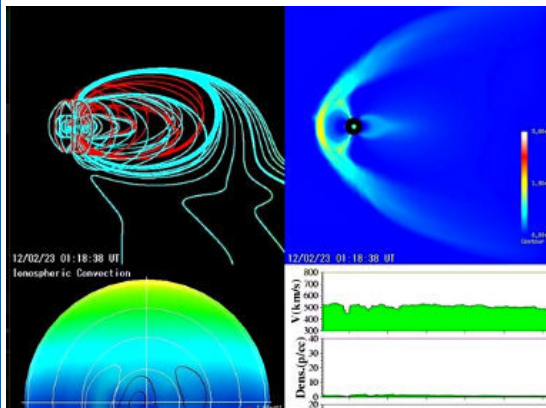

Twice in a row, Earth's magnetic field is being twisted and spaceweather came out posted the SAME thing!

Twice in a row on the same exact date????? c'mon now, something is not right here!

Again I started looking at data around the Chile 8.8 quake on 2/27/10 thinking an outside force is putting pressure on the Earth and well the data speaks for itself.

So early on Feb 23rd, 2012 I saw Earth's magnetic field experiencing some oddities.

Lets just say I had a very strong gut feeling NASA would pull the same BS and "blame the Sun" and we'd be hit before the "end of the 26th" so early on the 23rd I made a prediction which is below.

more answers! Will they attempt to cover it up and blame the Sun like they have in the past? Or say nothing just like recently and admit "scientists are baffled again as to why Northern lights with any Solar Flare". Within 2-3 days I'd say.. soo Northern Lights reported in the World before the end of the 26th.. yeah I could be wrong but I'm putting my butt on the line because I'm pretty confident.

What followed was EXACTLY as previous years with a compressed/repelled magnetic field on the 25th and spaceweather saying yesterday on the 24th there was a Solar Eruption!

CANYON OF FIRE: A magnetic filament snaking over the sun's northeastern limb rose up and erupted during the early hours of Feb 24th. The eruption split the sun's atmosphere creating a "canyon of fire," shown here in a movie captured by the Solar Dynamics Observatory.

The glowing walls of the canyon are formed in a process closely related to that of arcade loops, which appear after many solar flares. Stretching more than 400,000 km from end to end, the structure traces the original channel where the filament was suspended by magnetic forces above the stellar surface.

As erupting magnetic filaments often do, this one launched a coronal mass ejection (CME) into space. The Solar and Heliospheric Observatory recorded the expanding cloud: movie. UPDATE: At first this CME did not appear heading for Earth. However, a new analysis by forecasters at the Goddard Space Weather Lab shows that the cloud will indeed hit Earth's magnetic field on Feb. 26th at 13:30 UT (+/- 7 hr): animated forecast track. Geomagnetic storms are possible when the CME arrives.

My prediction on the 23rd came true as Earth was hit on the 26th with and increased Auroras as seen below.

On youtube I posted a forecast as well and warned of "plus expect Sun coverup". I referenced last year when there was an X-Class flare a couple days before the Japan 9.0 on March 11, 2011.

So lets now compare spaceweather (official story) from March 11, 2011 and 2012.

The screenshot shows the spaceweather.com website. The top section displays a forecast for March 11, 2012, with a sun icon and a "number: 88" rating. Below this, there is a news article titled "AURORAS INVADE THE USA: Earth's magnetic field is still queering..." with a photo of a person standing in a snowy field looking up at a green aurora. The article includes a quote from Travis Nowicky and a link to a "March 2011 Aurora Photo Gallery". At the bottom, there is a video player showing a close-up of the sun with a bright flare.

CALM BEFORE THE STORM: Earth's magnetic field is growing quiet again after two days of geomagnetic storming promoted by CME impacts. At the peak of the disturbance on March 9th, Northern Lights were spotted in the United States as far south as the Dakotas, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Oregon, Wyoming, Illinois, Montana, and even Kansas. The finest displays, as usual, were reserved for Alaska.

"Almost immediately after sunset, the sky began to fill with ribbons of auroras above Chena Hot Springs (just outside Fairbanks) in Alaska," reports photographer Christopher Freemantle. "The intensity grew until very bright, multicoloured and fast moving auroras were visible."

Although the magnetosphere is calm now, more storms are in the offing. A CME hurled toward our planet by the M6-class solar flare of March 9th is expected to reach Earth during the early hours of March 11th. High-latitude sky watchers should be alert for auroras. Aurora alerts: text phone

Nearly the same, with a quiet magnetosphere and Earth's magnetic field headed sideways in the opposite direction.. including with field lines in front of the Earth!

On March 13th 2012, Earth's magnetic field completely flipped to the other side as covered here on GLP.

Thread: Magnetic Wind from the dark side of Earth - VERY IMPORTANT

Thread: GLP, this is for you... NASA Hiding Data of Magnetosphere Reversal

Let me repeat that because this is serious! During the day of the 9.0 in Japan on March 11, 2011 Earth's magnetic field nearly flipped. March 11, 2012 one year later Earth's magnetic field did nearly the same thing.. two days after that the Magnetic field did indeed flip!

Just for the record, just a few days after this magnetic field flipped an Executive Order was signed (3/16/2012) for Resources Preparedness.

Which in short include the absolute control over food, water... ALL form of energy and resources!

Think what kind of event would set that into motion? Something massive.

Now moving forward to Twin 8+ Indonesia quakes on April 11th, 2012

Please follow this chain sequence of events.. first here is a prediction on March 30th, 2012.

Said: "Earth's magnetosphere should be blasted before the end of April 3. Regardless of any data manipulation that also means there will be increased reports of Auroras / Northern lights in that time frame. High impact time I feel is between 4/1 & 4/2 but activity up is possible until the end of 4/3." Next to the forecast is the magnetic field from March 30th, 2011.

APRIL AURORAS: According to the space weather forecast, geomagnetic storms were unlikely on April 1st. It would've been foolish to go out looking for Northern Lights. Warren Gammel of Fairbanks, Alaska, decided to check the skies anyway, and this is what he saw

"I didn't expect to see too much when I went out at 2 a.m. on April 1st, but the auroras were fairly strong," he says. "I took these pictures using a Canon T1i with a Peleng 8mm fisheye lens."

The display was caused by a minor but effective solar wind stream that arrived during the early hours of April 1st. The impact sparked bright lights across the Arctic realm of North America. No joke. It pays to be alert for auroras.

SPONTANEOUS AURORAS: Solar activity is low, but solar storms are not always required to make auroras appear around the Arctic Circle. Ole C. Salomonsen photographed this spontaneous display last night over Tromsø, Norway:

"No auroras were forecast, but when the magnetograms at the University of Tromsø started to move, and I thought I should go outside for a look," says Salomonsen. "At times the display was very vivid and strong!"

The reason for this show was the interplanetary magnetic field, or IMF. On April 1st, the IMF tipped south, opening a crack in Earth's magnetosphere. Solar wind poured in to fuel the auroras. (So the sun was involved after all.)

Links:2011 - [link to spaceweather.com]2012 - [link to spaceweather.com]"So the Sun was involved after all" .....!?!"*Both years was said "No Auroras were forecast/unlikely" uh no.. [\[link to www.godlikeproductions.com\]](#)Now towards April 5th 2011, 2012.. notice how similar:*Prediction on April 5, 2012 local and second one on April 6th:*5th: "this forecast currently is active through the 10th of April. High impact probability is between late on the 7th though the 9th I believe. That will include pressure on Earth's magnetosphere, Aurora reports. Increased quake activity for sure and there is a HIGH probability of a large quake."*6th: "wow... this is really prolonged. Sorry to say, this is a very bad sign. I have never seen this prolonged activity before... never this long. Forecast extended at least an extra day."

Field was repelled till April 6th UTC... so this forecast currently is active through the 10th of April.
 High impact probability is between late on the 7th though the 9th I believe.
 That will include pressure on Earth's magnetosphere, Aurora reports are likely and perhaps including more fireballs reported... also increased earthquake activity.
 Last time I predicted Northern lights, fireballs ballooned up being documented the same day which means now debris from the tail of PX is increasing being aimed towards Earth along with the charged particles.
 Happened last time so I will say there is probability it will happen again within the time frame I documented.
 As for us Earthquakes go, again just one quake over a 5.5 over the past 3 days... that occurrence I'm 100% sure will change through the forecast.
 Increased quake activity for sure and there is a HIGH probability of a large quake. U rate 6.3+ at a personal feeling of 95% and 5.8+ at 100% through the forecast.
 Mega quake is also possible 6.7+ I rate at about 60%
 Areas of concern is Mexico through the bottom of S. America. Fiji/New Guinea region is also under increased watch however... Mexico through all S. America is no doubt to rattle around, swarm activity too within that area.

Just to clarify this is what is 100% sure going to happen:
 Pressure on magnetosphere, Northern lights, 5.8+ quakes and increased overall earthquakes in compared to the previous few days.
 Again NICT is still shut down which makes me wonder. However my previous 3 predictions have been spot on, I'm using new data for the first time being NICT is down.
 Being this pattern has been right on, my forecasts have been right on... hopefully NASA's magnetic field data is legit.
 At this moment NOAA is NOT showing any eruptions Earth facing at this current time. I'm very confident in a forecast... it's time to shake up the Sheeple!

 April 5

wow... this is really prolonged. Sorry to say, this is a very bad sign. I have never seen this prolonged activity before... never this long. Forecast extended at least an extra day.

Now spaceweather for April 6th 2011/12
Said on "April 5" there was "filament" activity and we need to "monitor/stay turned" because it was unknown it the Earth would be effected.
Btw those "filaments" occurred AFTER Earth's magnetic field was already being repelled with closed field lines.

UNSTABLE FILAMENT: An active filament of solar magnetism is snaking around the sun's southeastern limb today. Measuring more than 200,000 km along its sinuous backbone, the vast structure is in a constant state of motion. NASA's Solar Dynamics Observatory froze it in this snapshot taken 20:16 UT on April 5th

Filaments as agitated as this one is often erupt and hurl parts of themselves into space. Because of the filament's location on the sun's limb any such blast would not be Earth-directed but it would be photogenic! Readers with solar telescopes are encouraged to monitor the action

Sun

THREE EXPLOSIONS: Three coronal mass ejections (CMEs) blasted away from the sun in quick succession during the late hours of April 5th movie. The clouds were propelled by magnetic filaments erupting in various locations around the sun's northern hemisphere. NASA's Solar Dynamics Observatory recorded this explosion, the most potent of the three:

The movie shows a filament connected to sunspot AR1450 rising up and snapping. In the aftermath of the eruption, an arcade of hot-glowing magnetic loops forms over the blast site as a "canyon of fire" illuminates the empty filament channel.

Remarkably, given their number not one of the CMEs appears to be heading for our planet. This conclusion is only tentative, however, because of visual confusion among the three clouds. Stay tuned for updates.

NO CME, NO PROBLEM: A CME expected to hit Earth on April 9th missed but the Arctic lit up with auroras anyway. Yuichi Takasaka sends this report from the Northwest Territories of Canada: "Even though the CME missed, we had three outbreaks of Northern Lights at Prelude Lake." Here is one of them:

The source of the display was the IMF (interplanetary magnetic field), which tipped south on April 9th, opening a crack in Earth's magnetosphere. Solar wind poured in and fueled the auroras.

APRIL AURORAS: The auroras this month have been something to shout about. Just ask this happy sky watcher, photographed by Ruslan Akhmetasafin in Siberia on April 13th:

The display came at the tail end of a geomagnetic storm sparked by solar wind hitting Earth's magnetic field on April 12th. The event was so strong, it sent Northern Lights spilling over the Canadian border into US states such as Michigan and Minnesota. The storm has since subsided, but another flare up is possible as the solar wind continues to blow. Aurora alerts: voice text.

LUCKY MAGNETIC STORM: A solar wind stream hit Earth's magnetic field on April 12th, sparking a geomagnetic storm (Kp=5) that peaked during the early hours of Friday the 13th. Northern Lights were sighted over the USA as far south as Minnesota, Michigan, and Wisconsin. In Beecher, Wisconsin, photographer Brian Larmay made this lucky shot of the International Space Station flying through the display:

The auroras were very impressive here in northeastern Wisconsin," says Larmay.

Another photographer, Shawn Mabine of Marquette, Michigan, sends this report from the shores of Lake Superior: "The sky was ablaze in light. Northern lights were so bright they lit up the beach." was an amazing night."

In case you haven't notice I was using NICT magnetosphere simulation as my source of data making the accurate predictions back in early 2012.

Just a few weeks after the Twin Sumatra quakes in April the entire NICT was terminated, along with data history.

Thread: NICT Real-time Magnetosphere Simulation is now shut down for good! "Web services have been terminated"! Very interesting!

But the real question is.. why would they wipe out magnetosphere data history as well?????

NICT had data saved in movie format going to Dec of 2003.

[link to web.archive.org]

Good thing the NASA data history is still up which can be still used to verify the screen shots I presented.

[link to iswa.gsfc.nasa.gov:8080]

However their data history only goes back to August of 2009.

Conclusion, first here are a few bullet points:

- * There is a direct connection to Earth's magnetic field experiencing anomalies around the time of the Mega Quakes.
- * Earth's magnetic field experiencing the very same thing year after year to the date.
- * March 11 the last two years Earth's magnetic field sideways, on March 13th this year it completely flipped.
- * These mega quakes and patterns ONLY happen in the beginning of the year.
- * Earth Booms increase all around this time as well
- * EXACT dates.. for the year by year happening for anomalies of Earth's magnetic field and Auroras in connection.
- * I was able to be predict activity before hand in knowing this data before any solar activity and before any NOAA/NASA forecasts.
- * There appears to be a cover up with spaceweather that can't be the same to the date year after year, especially proven due to the accuracy of the predictions.
- * All the anomalies in connection to this data have increased in severity the past 3 years.

Just for the hell of it, I'm going to document some other recent changes in our Solar System.. maybe somebody can connect even more dots with all the data.

Here are my short thoughts on the data presented in the thread.

Well obviously something huge is going on that we're not being told.

Not only does the data prove so but the accurate predictions I've made before anybody else further proves so!

Earth's magnetic field is not supposed to flip, Earth's magnetic field is not supposed to experience the same anomalies on the same dates yearly along with the same specific Auroras.

A kid on the internet is not supposed to be able to predict activity over and over again before NASA and so called "Solar eruptions".

Although all of this is indeed a reality, not the twilight zone.

Mentally while making these predictions I thought whatever the source is has something in connection with Earth's orbit.. which might explain why on certain dates specific activity.

As for the source of all this, I won't get into what might be because this thread is about WHAT IS, WHAT WE KNOW for sure based upon data we can see with our own eyes!

However I will say this...

We are given a lot by NASA and the scientific community of things going on in space such as the Sun, dark rift, cosmic rays, alignments etc.. we the public don't have all the tools in space so we rely on sources that do to tell us everything. Are they telling us everything???

Lets keep it simple:

Being NASA is aware, has many the smart minds and equipment studying this stuff.. why is it they haven't come out and acknowledged and predicted these specific anomalies that have occurred within exact dates yearly???

Hey if a random kid on the internet can predict when geomagnetic storms and pressure on Earth's magnetosphere will occur to the exact date... it would make sense that NASA would be able to make the same predictions before the random internet person right????

Well that hasn't been the case.

The answer is simple but scary.. if the source was something mainstream then somebody else would have predicted activity and put this data together before me. I would have to be silly to think I'm smarter than the minds at NASA and the whole scientific community that could have put this data together! Maybe many are blinded by "Solar activity".. perhaps that could have been an agenda all along and as is why I even predicted accurately "blame the Sun" before hand.

If I were to guess this "source" has a magnetic field and comes into some alignment of Earth, repelling Earth's magnetic field.. then days later the protons reach Earth. That would explain the same magnetic field, Auroras patterns on the exact dates over and over again in my opinion. That's actually what I believed when I made the predictions.. looking for certain magnetic field events in then knowing charged particles we're headed to Earth.. thus is why the predictions came before "Solar eruptions".

Is all this top secret information?

Am I concerned for putting all this out there?

No not really, all I've done is put together side by side screenshots of public data.. anybody can do that.

I'm sure somebody would have noticed this data sooner or later anyway and certainly some will figure out even more than me now being I'm sharing all this. I don't want to make this thread about what we don't know but what we do, what we know is this data and that's what I want to focus on and move forward with.

Forecast:

The forecast below will be based all upon the data above, once you read it you'll understand I'm not making stuff up out of my but but rather am referencing historical data and statistics.

Here is my 3 month time frame for Earth being the most severely effected by the source causing the previous pattern anomalies.

*** February 20th through May 20th the time frame.

- * Increasing Earth Booms that I guarantee will make the mainstream news.
  - * Increasing Bird and Fish anomalies such as groups of Birds falling dead from the sky and many dolphins beaching themselves..(for example).
  - * Earth's magnetic field increasing being severely compressed/repelled as well as a flip (if they don't cover it up again).
  - * The "Blame the Sun Agenda" will most definitely pick up, expect increasing M/X class flares during this time frame.. although the validity of this activity will be questionable (if you want to believe the "Sun stuff" be my guest, bare in mind my this thread has shown there is a second source sending charged particles directed towards Earth.. without that fact I wouldn't have been able to predict accurate previously)
  - * Which also means increasing pressure on Earth's magnetosphere and a whole lot more Auroras.
  - * There will be at least one 8+ earthquake within that time frame and the New Madrid will pick up in activity.
  - * Increasing Plate Movement meaning redirected pressure sending bursts of earthquakes 6s & 7s globally within a few days. We first really saw this after the Sumatra earthquake in April Thread: Scientists: Huge Earthquake April 11 Triggered Other Quakes Worldwide
  - * Increasing buoys going into event mode from all this movement.
  - * March 2012 was warmest on record for America, I expect more weird weather as well.
- [link to www.weather.com]

Specific short time frames to watch for

February 21-28

March 6-13

March 30 - April 15th (most severe)

During these 3 time frames look for severe magnetic field anomalies, Sun BS and pressure on Earth's magnetosphere. Severe earthquake watch as well, I bet at least one 8+ will hit during one of these dates.

If you noticed.. these are the same dates I've already covered in this thread above and predictions I've accurately made from them as well.

The time frame above has increasing gotten more severe during the past 3 years, there is no reason for me to think this time around will be any different. This just the basic forecast, it is possible it will be much worse. How bad things will get I won't know until we get closer but what is above is a guarantee.

One thing to point out, remember NICT was shut down previously:
Thread: NICT Real-time Magnetosphere Simulation is now shut down for good! "Web services have been terminated"! Very interesting!
NASA shut down their feeds before as well:
Thread: GLP, this is for you... NASA Hiding Data of Magnetosphere Reversal

So it's always possible data can be hidden from us so beware. Hiding data is one thing, hiding what's going on with the Earth is another so I'm not too concerned about that.

I've spent a year of my life studying this stuff along with possibilities, looking at magnetic field data each and everyday! This thread is a year of work put together in a thread shared freely.

Never have I bought into the whole 12/21 stuff: Thread: Nothing will happen on Dec 21, 2012 and how the Sheeple will respond...

Again my work is not based upon Calendars, galactic alignments, special zodiac dates, Timewave, fancy numbers, religion predictions or other "he said/she said" stuff.

I compile data and statistical information of things actually going on with the Earth.

Then I see if any of the data is NOT random, when it's not random then I use the patterns of specific changes to make a forecast.

In that people actually see for themselves I'm not making stuff up, they see exactly what I see, how I compiled and made a forecast.

I study what's actually going on with the Earth because as you can see a lot of answers are all around us!

The mass Media pushed this 12/21/12 stuff sooo hard!

Why aren't they covering stuff that is actually going on such as in this thread??? Like Earth's magnetic field flipping for an example?

You can figure that one out.

Sure people will complain this thread is too long!

We live in a society that wants quick simple answers and doom dates given to them by the mainstream without much backing.

That mindset will lead us down a dark road which is well deserved, life isn't about handouts.. awareness doesn't come by handouts either!

In case you're wondering why none of this data has been put together before, how I was able to predict accurately earlier this year.. well that's a good question.

As I said earlier that I'm not smarter than the whole scientific community that could have put this data together before me.. well that's not all.

I have had intense spiritual experiences in my life, some of which gave me some ideas of where to look.. such as is how I got started on all this data.

No, it doesn't mean I didn't have to work my butt off putting everything together.. even just as you can see by how long this thread is lol.

It's not the time or place to share about myself, the data is what's important not me but it would be an injustice if I didn't share that little bit because I can't take all credit.

I will end the thread on this note though..

Humans are soo motivated by using knowledge and awareness for selfishness and to have POWER OVER one another.

We should be focusing more to using knowledge and awareness to share and EMPOWER one another.

Unity of intention to help and help empower growth where it is sought is when the magic happens.

If you made it through this thread and it has made a difference for you just a little bit, then I am grateful.

Drunvalo Melchezidek mentions the beginning of 2013 too as the start of big earth changes in the coast to coast interview of 22 November of this year. Although I must say that nothing is set in stone and dates don't mean anything if you ask me.

Peace.

Drunvalo is a fraud. You are probably a New Age freak?

This thread is based on historical data and statistical patterns. I compile data and statistical information of things actually going on with the Earth. Then I see if any of the data is NOT random, when it's not random then I use the patterns of specific changes to make a forecast. In that people actually see for themselves I'm not making stuff up, they see exactly what I see, how I compiled and made a forecast. The thread is really long because I want to you see/understand as I do of what's really going on, along with see I already have an accurate track record with this data. All legit here. |

What is it about this position in our orbit of the Sun lately? Something charged, massive and increasing intensity or proximity? I agree with the data presented by OP however it is still a leap of faith in explaining the magnetic anomalies away with a sun twin/brown dwarf. An alternate and I believe equally plausible proposition is the fluctuations are due to the iridium rich ion stream from galactic centre that our solar system is currently entering. Either way, rough seas ahead.   37 Things You Must Hoard Now WARNING: In any crisis, it only takes 2 hours for stores to run out of these essential 37 things.... Read More  |
