Transcription Conference Awake & Aware, Los Angeles -
19 September 2009

Robert Dean: Am I being picked up here? Am I being monitored? Can I move around? Then he talks about not realising they'd have an overhead projector and so he rushed back to his hotel room to grab some slides, then I've got a few pictures to show to you that you might find interesting."

I want to say that it's an honour to be introduced by someone like Jordan. He's one of the foremost scholars of our time, and I honour and I respect him and as he said "we're old friends. We go back a long way".

I also want to say a word or two about the young man who was up here on this podium. Rick Stolen is very special. He's probably one of the foremost historians of our time, and I strongly urge you, encourage you, to not only buy and read his first volume, but get the second, because I'm waiting expectantly for volume 3. That young man has pulled the cover back from this cover-up and the scandal that we've been living through for the last 60 to 70 years. I take my hat off to him. I've known him for some time, and I'm so encouraged by young men like him, that are picking up and going with this program, because as

I'm sure all of you know, I'm a member of the old guard, and uh, we're diminishing daily, literally.

Not a week or a month goes by that I don't hear that some of my old croneys are gone. They're not gone, they've just crossed back. They're in, they're home now. But I miss them and I'm gratified to see some of the young men are coming along to fill in the space for us. I'm also gratified to look out and see you guys, because you're the reason I'm here. I don't speak publicly much anymore, I, I find it inconvenient, I hate like hell to travel on airplanes.

I got back from Spain here at the end of July and I had to go to bed for a damn week and then I went through Kennedy airport and I was outraged when I looked around at Kennedy, it's a national disgrace. I mean, it's dirty, the broken furniture ... the service is rotten, the restrooms are filthy, and most of them are closed, it's terrible to walk through Kennedy having gone through the airport at Barcelona, and seen new and modern and, oh my god, those Spaniards are really something else. They put on a show there, in Barcelona, the last week in July, that was, um, outstanding. There were 1,500 people showed up and they had standing room. It was a hell of a good conference and I was honoured to be invited... I and Stephen Greer, uh, Stephen Bassett, who I will touch upon briefly in a few minutes, and, uh, I was gratified by the Spaniards – they're great hosts and they're very enlightened and very interested in this subject.

As many of you know, this subject has been my favourite subject now for over the last 20 years. I've been on this journey for 45 years, but I've been speaking publicly for the last 20, and I speak monthly, openly and I violate my national security oath every time I open my mouth; and I plan to violate my national security oath tonight. Then again, a special thanks for you guys, because I wouldn't be here if it weren't for you.

I'm so encouraged by the people I meet at these conferences because not only are you open minded, but you are enlightened and you are enthused, and not only have you learned, as I have, that this subject is, in my opinion, the greatest story in human history, because it is the story of human history.

We're not alone, guys, and we have never been alone. We are members of an infinite universe filled with infinite intelligent life; and we have had an intimate inter-relationship with an advanced extraterrestrial intelligences now for, oh, at least 10,000 years, and the evidence is pretty overwhelming that at least one, perhaps two of those different groups had a hand in engineering at least one of the human genome, over 100,000 years ago, and that evidence is literally overwhelming.

Now, we're going to touch upon a whole bunch of stuff and I want you to understand that I have come to the point in my life where I have become almost sympathetic to the government for keeping the lid on this thing. They don't know how to lift the lid on this subject, they don't know how to lift the lid on Pandora's Box, because when they lift the lid just a little, tiny bit, BOOM, the whole damn thing is going to come out and nobody in government is prepared for that. Because this story is so damn big.

I know that many of you, probably most of you, are aware of the famous Booking's report. NASA gave a contract to the Brooking (?) Institute in the late 50s and the basic point was simply this – trying to find out what we should do if we, in the future, should encounter advanced extraterrestrial intelligence. And they worked on this thing (looks behind – thank you, thank you my boy, thank you)... They worked on this thing for three years, published it in '61, delivered it to congress in '61, and they concluded as a result of this study that if we should indeed, at some point, run into advanced extraterrestrial intelligence, it would probably be a good idea to keep your mouth shut and not tell the masses of people.

Now Margaret Read was on the committee, and she'd had experiences in the South Pacific with primitive societies where they had been confronted by our advanced cultures, and those primitive societies shrivelled and died, and the conclusion of the Brooking study was that if we indeed would encounter advanced extraterrestrial intelligence, we probably shouldn't tell the masses of people because ooh, sociologically, theologically, scientifically – it would be a damn disaster.

So they published that study and it literally became national policy; and it's one of the major reasons why the lid has been kept down so tightly on this thing for so long. As I said, it's not simply that we are being visited by guys from other planets. It isn't simply that we are being visited by guys from other star systems. Nor are we being visit ... you know ... from other galaxies. Good God, those are all given. They also learned, and I knew that when I retired in '76, that we're being visited by guys from other dimensions. They're coming through portals, apparently, they create portals, apparently, and they're coming and going from other dimensions and the more advanced societies that we have encountered, have been multidimensional, and it's no wonder that our ancestors deified these dudes back 10,000 years ago.

I think there are people today who would deify them if they were to confront them and see what they can do and understand where they're from, and what their capabilities are. You would think that it was almost godlike to have that kind of technology. So, over the years I've almost come to a point where I've almost begun to be patient and tolerant with the government's lies, but not quite, not quite. I'm so fed up with government lies, I don't even know where to start (claps and cheers from the audience and he says "you too, huh?")

A couple of people ... last week, I was over at the Bay area conference ... and a couple of people said "what have we learned in the last year since you were here", and I said "well, we've learned that we, the American people, have elected a black President". Isn't that pretty damned impressive? Who would have ever thought that the American people could elect a black President? Listen guys, I'm from the last century. That is dynamite to me.

And my heart goes out to that kid because I ... I, uh ... he's likeable, he's personable and he's bright, and.... uh ... I wish him well. I hope the hell he can pull it off. He's got so damn much on his plate that he isn't going to disclose this subject any time soon. 'Cause he's not ready for this. I don't even think he's even been briefed yet on what all this is about.

You all know the story of what happened to Jimmy Carter, who promised everybody that when he was elected he was going to release all of the UFO information? He got into Washington and he got his National Security briefing and he walked out of his briefing with tears in his eyes. Apparently, the director of Central Intelligence said "Mr President, you don't have a high enough clearance, Sir, to have access to all this material". Now, can you believe that? The director of Central Intelligence says also "and Sir, you don't have any need to know". And poor old Jimmy just ... he wilted, and as a result he never said boo! about anything during his four years in office. Promises went down the tube.

Who was the director of Central Intelligence? Some guy by the name of George Herbert Walker Bush. Now we're beginning to put pieces together here. The puzzle is beginning to form here. Who is sitting on top of this damn cover-up? ... Oh my ... now, I want to share something with you here, I ... uh ... The guys in Spain asked me continually "when is there going to be disclosure?"

Good God, you guys, it's... you know ... it's been years, and years and years now. We have expected the United States government to have disclosed this thing... when are you going to do it?" And I said "guys, hold your breath, it isn't going to happen any time soon because it's too big a story". And then of course, Greer and Bassett were there at the conference and uh ... well, let me give you a small parable here ... I got a little parable I've prepared. It's called the three Stephens and the Apocalypse.

That sounds religious enough, doesn't it? The three Stephens and the Apocalypse. I want to now touch upon that word, apocalypse, because that's another word that ticks me off. I am so pissed off at the number people who misuse that word. Most of my fundamentalist friends – and I have a few, still, even after all these years – keep talking about the four horsemen of the apocalypse: Oh my god, we're doomed, you know – war, famine, plague, pestilence, the four horsemen are riding.

For god's sake, the four horseman have been riding for 10,000 damned years! But most of them never really grasped the meaning of the word 'apocalypse'. It's a Greek word and it has several meanings: The 'revealing', the 'uncovering', and the 'disclosing' of what? The truth. And you're living in the middle of the apocalypse.

You've been living in it for the last 10 to 20 years and you'll be living in it for another 20 to 30 years. The 'revealing', the 'uncovering', and the 'disclosing' is taking place. As you sit here and as you breath, it is taking place now. But I got into this little tangle with Greer and Bassett and I respect them both, they are decent guys; I've known Stephen Greer for years. They keep hammering away. They have these conferences in Washington and they keep prodding Congress and they keep prodding the Government and .. you've got have a committee and you've got to reveal this material and you've got to tell the American people the truth, blah blah blah ... and the Government – pardon me – but they give them that little finger, you know, in the air?

'Scuse me ladies, I'm sorry, that's rather rude, but the Government does that to Greer and Bassett and they go back and they say "well maybe next week, maybe next month". Ooh, a new administration, ooh we've got Paul Dester, who worked for Clinton, we've got Pinata, who worked for Clinton, and we've got a young President who I believe is honest and transparent and who is going to tell us the truth. I said to Bassett and Greer "don't hold your breath, guys – it ain't going to happen".

That new President ain't going to put that on his plate; not if he can avoid it. Because he's not going to get the whole damn story right now, he's got so damn much piled up outside of his oval office, he can hardly get in and out of it. And you all know the story on that. Now, who's the other Stephen? ... aahh ... a young man in Hollywood – Spielberg. Now where does he fit in to this thing? Well, when I was asked about disclosure, is it going to happen? And I say "no", "yes"; "yes", "no"; "no", "yes", and everybody is saying "what the hell is he talking about"? Disclosure has been underway for some time.

Stephen Spielberg made a bunch of movies. He made ET, which I think most of you have probably seen. He .. that was for the kids . He made another one called Close Encounters of the Third Kind, and that was for the big guys. Then he made a television series called Taken, which was dynamite. They tell me, and I got this from sources I trust, that he's got two separate programmes in the mill. Another movie and perhaps another TV series that he's working on, that they're going to come up with hopefully in the next few years. Now these movies, as they come out, effect people.

There's not one of you here in the audience who wasn't, you know, effected by ET – it was cute. It was a kids story really. And I think there isn't one of you who wasn't touched by the closing scene of Close Encounters of the Third Kind, when the guys pile aboard that ship and off it went. And then Taken, which I think ran for a number of weeks – I can't remember how many episodes it was. (Audience member calls out "20") Twenty? Good god, yes well that's a major programme. It was powerful, well-written, and dynamite, and it had so much classified material in it that most people I don't think ever realised they were looking at classified material.

And then there was another guy out in Hollywood who I got to know. A number of years ago I was honoured to be invited as a speaker at a MENSA regional conference in Orange County. I was honoured to be invited and I went and spoke to the MENSA crowd, and the guest of honour at that particular regional conference was a dude by the name of Chris Carter. He is a producer and director .. the X-Files is what most of you know. After presentations and all, and drinks and .. you know ... I got him aside and we were standing there, sipping away – fruit juice, of course – umm, I pulled him over and I said "Chris, you've got to level with me".

I said "I've been watching your programme here now for some time". I think it had been underway for about 6 years at that time, and I said "it's impressive – some of your stories are dynamite, some of your stories aren't worth xxxxxxxx xxxxx (can't understand what he's saying here), but it's a pretty decent series, but I said I want to ask you something: there are three incidents, three episodes of your X-Files that I happen to know are highly classified Government secrets. I'd been on the inside. I knew these things to be classified, and here they are – I'm seeing them on the X-Files, for god's sake.

And I said "how the hell do you guys do that?" and he said "I've got some great writers", and I said "bullshit! Nonsense! Poppycok, you know". What is it my old British ancestors said? Balderdash. I said "you can't tell me that your writers have come up with classified material that they've dramatised. That are right-on and that are still classified". He looked around and he'd got a sheepish grin on his face and he said "well, yeah, we've been getting some story ideas from a variety of sources". I said "where?" and he said "well, I, you know, can't really say, and we've been getting some promotional ideas from different people".

I said "well, you're right on. The three stories, and I laid it out for him; these three particular cases were classified and still are classified. And all he did, he looked at me sheepishly and he grinned and then he said "you ain't seen nothing yet ... stay tuned". And it ran for another 2 years. But there again is what I wanted to point out to you is what Steven Spielberg was involved in, what Chris Carter is involved in, and what some of the directors and writers of the Stargate series, and the Star Trek series, in that from time to time little bits and pieces of material are injected into those story lines, that are not fiction.

They are not science fiction, they are science fact, but they are introduced in such a way that you don't know it, you don't recognise it. It hits you at what is known as a subliminal level. And when I tell you that disclosure ain't going to happen and when I tell you that disclosure is happening now, I am referring to that subliminal, educational programme that is underway that you're all being subjected to.

You're getting the uncovering and the revealing and the disclosure in subtle ways that you don't even recognise; and you're going to get more of it, because the programme apparently is rather successful and the guys who put it together are rather pleased at your response. And you're going to be getting more stories, and you're going to get some stories that are so far-out that you're going to say to yourselves "good god, that couldn't happen". But good god, it is happening.

Ben Rich, before he retired from Lockheed Martin, made some comments to a number of people there in California ... we're in California ... forgive me – I'm from Arizona, I baked my gourd in Phoenix for the last 6 months and I lose it sometimes. This program is underway. It's subtle, it's continuous, and it is subliminal education; and it's affecting you, it's affecting everybody, and you're going to see more of it. They did it in the Stargate series, they did it in Star Trek .. Kirk, Jean Luc Picard and the rest of them on the Enterprise, they slipped little bits and pieces in from time to time, where you think "ooh, isn't that exciting, isn't that way out..". Guys, it's not that way out.

Ben Rich said, before he retired, he said “we’re one hundred years ahead of establishment science”. This was a guy who had a right to know and he had a need to know and he was in the inside of the program. We’re a hundred years ahead of establishment science. The stuff that normally is understood by guys in universities, you know .. on the street. Rich says we’re a hundred years beyond that. And he said, he says, you know, we could take ET home. Now, the movie of ET was out at about that time, you the story of the ET, the little dude; and the little dude says “ET, go home .. ET wants to go home”. Rich says “we can take ET home”.

Now, Ben Rich has been dead for 10 years, for god’s sake. I knew another Lockheed Martin scientist who has since passed away. A guy by the name of David Froney, who worked with Lockheed Martin for almost 30 years. I invited David to speak at a conference in Phoenix some years back – Wendle Stevens and I put on a program – we got a hold of Froney . We knew he was brilliant and we knew that he had been on the inside of research at Lockheed Martin for so long. We got David to come down and speak at our conference there in Phoenix, and he was getting up in years.

David's gone home now ... he was getting up in years ... and he shared some things with us. (He rummages in a bag and makes a joke, and continues ...) Anyhow, Froney said, "you know Bob", he said, "I've been retired now for 10 years". He said "before I retired, I was in the Advanced Systems Divisions of Lockheed Martin, and we were dealing with something we called Modified Field Compulsion – a variable field", he said, and he began to lose me immediately, I didn't recognise what he was talking about.

Matter, anti-matter conversion; exotic field tension; wormhole; he said "it will modify time and space" and he said "we have had trans-luminal flight for over 30 years". I had to stop again and I said "hold it ... trans-luminal, hyper-luminal flight? You're talking about faster than light, for christ's sake". He said "yeah, we've had it now for 30 years". Now this is from David Froney who had spent, you know, the biggest chunk of his life as an advanced systems engineer for Lockheed Martin. And then we get the material from Ben Rich, and somebody said to Rich, he said “man, what the hell are you talking about?” He goes to the blackboard and writes ‘unfunded opportunities’.

I said “what the hell are you talking about?” He takes the chalk and he circles the ‘U’, ‘F’ and ‘O’, and then he left the stage and he walked out the door and they’re all thinking ‘good god, what this man’s lost to hear’ unfunded opportunities – UFO – what he was inferring and saying, literally in their face, yes we have reverse engineered technology from alien craft, and we’re flying it and it works, and we can take ET home. Now, one of the reasons I get so ticked off – you have to forgive me, here, I’m getting old, I don’t have the patience I used to have – the rumour has been going around that I’ve turned out to be a mean, rotten old fart.

Cynical, you know, grumpy .. well that’s not entirely true. I like to think, as Henry Higgins said, I have the milk of human kindness by the quart, in every vein. But I can’t really pull it off – I guess I am getting kind of grumpy in my old age. Guys, I’m getting angry. I really am getting angrier every day when I think about the con-job that’s being pulled and you and two- ... three hundred million other Americans, on a daily basis, where they are literally conning you to the point where they are taking you to the cleaners; they are stealing you blind and then they are lying to you about it.

I have a list – I call it my pissed-off list – you know when you are old and sitting in retirement, you have to spend your time doing something. So I've prepared this list. Top of the list are politicians – and I say, repeatedly, you guys have the best Congressmen money can buy. That bunch of clowns in Washington who consider themselves, call themselves Congress, we should build special prisons for them. I'm serious – I think about half of them should be put up in front of a judge and sent off for 10 years, because they're a bunch of damn thieves.

Not only are they molesting children, or what the hell the governor of North Carolina/South Carolina ... big scandal: his love affairs in Argentina ... to hell with his wife and kids, his love affairs in Argentina. And then we've got congressmen who are guilty of the same thing. Some of them are gay, and I'm not putting them down because they are gay, I'm putting them down because they lie about it. As I say, guys, we've got a mess of clowns back there. Will Rogers said – the most prominent, ongoing, continuing, self-continuing program in the world of liars and cheats, is the United States Congress, and Will's been gone for a long, long time.

So I get my gander up and I vent my spleen when I come to talk to guys like you, and I will say this to you that at the next election for congress and the next for the President, think carefully about what clowns you want to send off to Washington. I mean examine them carefully because they are supposed to represent you, and they're not doing a very good job ... ok, now 'scuse me I do have a tendency to ramble a bit because I have so damn much to cover. Oh yes .. one at the top of my list is NASA. You know that crowd – Never A Straight Answer? NASA.

This Newsweek came out a couple of weeks back –I'm sure most of you have seen it. This is a shameful issue, this is a shameful article. In search of Aliens, it says; and then it says NASA is out there looking. Now, while I was in Spain, the Spaniards asked me ... you know, just as I was going over there, we were celebrating 40 years of Apollo 11. Gee, that was something, wasn't it?! We put a couple of guys on the moon. We were patting ourselves on the back and tooting our little horns. Wasn't that great, wasn't that cool. Didn't we .. weren't we special .. and I had to say to some of my Spanish friends over there "you can never trust this damn bunch over at NASA".

They did go to the moon, but that was only half of the story. The story was what they found when they got there. The story are what photographs were taken. Now.. you probably know this, but in case you don't, I'll tell you again. NASA admitted about two years ago, I think about two years back, that they had inadvertently erased 40 rolls of film from the Apollo program. That release went out over the media and congress didn't say a word – no peep, no poop, nothing – the media itself, they reported it and – swoop, off into the wind.

NASA said we inadvertently, mistakenly , gee we're sorry, we erased 40 rolls of film from the Apollo program. Now we're talking about hundreds, if not thousands of individual photographs in those 40 rolls. They erased them. Why? Because they showed what they ran into on the moon. They showed what they ran into on the way to the moon. They showed what they ran into when they got there. This has got to go – swish – can't let that out. But some nitwit in NASA had forgotten that NASA had given a contract to the Japanese space agency back in the '60s, probably involving big bucks, where the Japanese –sharp bunch of guys over there – bought every negative, or every shot of every picture taken by the entire Apollo program, and they've got it in their computers in Japan.

NASA evidently forgot that. Now listen, you have to understand something: there are damn fine guys in NASA, there are good scientists ; there are some fine people working there. I'm not putting them down. I take my hat off to them and I respect them. The ones I'm really pissed off with are the administrators, the policy makers, the politicians. They forgot that they had sold all this to Japan. Lo and behold, I'm at a conference in Tokyo.

I was a guest of Junichi Yawi, one of the foremost Japanese researchers in UFO .. experts. I was on national television in Japan. While I was there I was provided some photographs, taken by NASA in the Apollo program, that the Japanese Space Agency has been sitting on top of for a long, long time. I'm about to show you a couple right now. Ok, this is negative 9. This is Apollo systems A13. OK, this photograph was taken by Apollo 13. Now, you may remember Apollo 13 – it was the one that never made it to the moon.

They had a tiny explosion on the way, where an oxygen tank blew up and they were barely able to get to the moon, go around and they were barely able to get home; but they were not alone on that trip; and so while they were out and away, going and coming, they were looking out the windows and they snapped pictures. This is one picture that was held by the Japanese Space Agency – you can see the Japanese writing here.

Anyhow – this is the moon, upper left, these two object here – B and C – are fairly large; they're circular discs of some kind; but over here – A – which is moving in to the scene, here is the positive and here is the negative – I hope you can all see that. Ok, so this is a circular disc on its own; here's the moon, another disc, but this dude is coming into the picture and here we are – here's the photo and here's the negative down here. This object is 5 miles long. So you wonder why NASA is keeping its mouth shut. How can they talk about something like that? How can they release something like that to you?

An object that we encountered on the way to the moon that's 5 miles long. Now, just give some thought. Try to consider technology, a culture, a civilisation that can not only build something like that, put it in space, put it in orbit around the earth. But staff it and man it with how many? I had the pleasure of being on a couple of aircraft carriers, my son is a career naval officer, spent 14 years on aircraft carriers. Nimitz class, atomic powered carriers. To those of you who don't know – they are impressive. They're a thousand feet long, they have a crew compliment of 5,000 men. These big, nuclear, Nimitz class carriers have 5,000 guys in their crew. They're massive, they're gigantic, they're unbelievable.

Now, we were joking one day about it, Eric and I, my son, what kind of a crew would this dude have with 5 miles? What are they doing over there? What is their pass-time? Their function? What is their purpose? Having been on a Nimitz carrier a couple of times, you know they're very impressive, soda fountains, snack bars that make the guys comfortable. I'd anticipated, I'd assumed that our on board our object out there, 5 miles long, you'd have bowling allies, restaurants, theatres; all kinds of entertainment.

Because we've learned over the years that if you are an alien and you've been involved in human beings, you need entertainment. So the probably have saunas aboard and probably their most favourite pastime, I would think, is watching human television. Think for a moment, having watched it yourself, and all of the idiotic crap that goes on TV, and imagine what a bunch of guys from another star system are thinking. They're rolling in the aisles probably, laughing at these unbelievable monkeys down here.

They're watching our stories, 'dancing with the stars', and they are supposed to think of us as being intelligent and advanced and sophisticated. Oh my ... ok ... This was the first shot. Here is the second one. This is negative 10. Now that big dude has moved over into the middle of the frame, and another object has showed up over here, was estimated at being 2 miles long. But this one, 5 miles – here is the print and here is the negative.

The same object but it seems to have moved somewhat, so we're not getting a full side view like we did in the other picture, we're getting that it's elongated and there are a couple of circular, disc-like objects here. Apparently it's like a carrier – it puts its aircraft out and brings them back and it's probably a carrier for discs – alien discs that we find in our skies all the time. Again, when you start considering the magnitude of the skies and the implications of what it means, then you can almost sympathise with the authorities about it.

They can't tell those people these things. No, no, no – they're not ready for it. No, no, no, hell, they're not ready for it – they're the ones who were scared to death. You guys can probably handle it, but they can't. That was only the beginning of the story. Over the years I've been fortunate in that I have been lucky in finding smart people, in the most unlikely places. I'm speaking at a conference at the Bay Area a number of years ago, and a little dude shows up by the name of Norman Burberin. Norman retired from NASA after almost 30 years.

He was an engineer and a photographic expert and he was responsible, he and a number of others were responsible, for putting together what they called the Voyager program. In the late 70s, astronomers and guys in NASA had discovered some anomalous things happening in the rings of Saturn. I love that word 'anomalous'. Things were happening, they didn't know what the hell they were. They didn't know how to explain it. So what they did, they put together a multi-million dollar program called Voyager. They sent Voyager to the rings of Saturn in 1980 and when Voyager 1 got out in the rings of Saturn it began taking pictures and the pictures were sent back to NASA and they were astounded, literally astounded. They got stuff they didn't expect.

Now before I go into detail about these photos I will tell you that Norman Burberin, a little dude about 5 feet tall, pink cheeks, little bow tie, brilliant as hell. Last year when I saw him at the Bay Area he was 87. I have been unable to reach him. I've tried through the phones and my wife tried with the computer, but I can't reach Norman. I don't know whether he's passed over, gone home, or what happened. All I know is that last year in the Bay Area I introduced him and they mobbed him, and the little dude had a box of books, and after I introduced him he got mobbed and he sold every book he had – at 50 bucks a pop.

Norman was, what I say there are some good folks in NASA; honest men who would like to tell you everything they've learned and everything they know. So anyhow, Norman, after frustration and time passed, in 1986 Norman decided to blow the whistle and publish the photographs that Voyager 1 took in the rings of Saturn. He couldn't get his book published in the United States – I wonder why? US publishers wouldn't touch him, wouldn't even talk to him. The little dude had to go to Scotland; Aberdeen, Scotland to get his book published, and that's the cover of his book; and it may be available, you could maybe find a copy if you try, here or there or wherever.

I hate to tell you what they might cost now because they're viewed as collector's items. But I was delighted that I was able to discover him and to present him to the conference in the Bay Area last year. The response from the audience was overwhelming. His little face lit up and he gave me a big hug, tears in his eyes; but he published his book in Aberdeen, Scotland, and it is a dynamite book. Now on the cover, this you see here on the right is part of the B ring of Saturn.

You know there are A, B, C rings .. and a whole bunch of them. Gigantic, Saturn is a gigantic planet and these rings are incredible. This thing here – self luminous, obviously artificial construction, obviously under intelligent control, because it moves around in the rings of Saturn; and, uh, they don't know what the hell it is, but it's larger than our moon. An intelligent, constructed, artificial object, larger than our moon, moving around throughout the rings of Saturn; wherever it will go, and we get a picture of it and we don't know what to say, we don't know what to do, we don't know how to respond. Bigger than our moon, ah that's only part of the story. Here we go – this is in the A ring and the statistics on this will blow your mind. This object here is an artificially constructed – as Norman said, NASA called it an electro-magnetic vehicle.

That dude is 2,000 miles long, over 450 miles in diameter, but 2,000 miles long; and here is another artificial, self luminous object, about the size of our moon that appears here and moves here, there and everywhere, wherever it will go – obviously under intelligent control. But consider this thing; consider the civilisation, the technology, the culture that can not only build something like that, but that can put it in space, move it here and there, wherever they will; for whatever purpose. Norman says he thought they were making the rings, which is why he titled his book The Ring Makers.

I said “Norman, do you ever stop to think they might be mining the rings?” We’ve concluded from several missions – Voyager 1 was only the first of a whole bunch of them – that the rings are made up of minerals, from perhaps god knows how many aeons back when the planets were being formed. I said “stop to think about an advanced technology that could mine those rings and those minerals are gold mines, you know”. Talk about nutrients, you’ve got all that good stuff. He said “you know, I didn’t think about that, they might be mining them”. (Pause) God I wish I knew what happened to Norman, I just lost track of him. But his book is a monument to the fact that there are some decent men in NASA who want the truth told.

Now I want to ask for a show of hands – how many of you are overwhelmed and shocked at this? Oh, a few – overwhelmed and shocked. Well that’s good, that’s good. I was overwhelmed and shocked the first time I saw this and the first time I began to put it together and consider what it meant. Because we’re getting to the important thing here: What does this mean? Now I assume most of you are aware and familiar with a brilliant educator and physicist in New York , by the name of Michio Kaku? A brilliant young man, a quantum physicist, a theoretical physicist; Michio has come up with what he considers to be a possibility of 4 different kinds of advanced civilisations.

Type 1, 2, 3 and 4. You, by the way, are members of a 00 type civilisation. Not that you didn’t know that, but you haven’t quite reached type 1 yet. The conclusion that many of us have reached is that we are looking at the results of at least a type 2 civilisation. Now ... how do these guys out there look upon us? Really do – how do you think they think of us? I have a pretty good idea because I've been getting some legitimate information from American military and scientific people who have not only met some of them from up there, but are working alongside of them.

In United States government national laboratories like San Dia, Los Alamos, Brookhaven national laboratory in Long Island, which is one of most super secret laboratories; anyhow, we have scientists and military guys who have been working alongside of some of those dudes, and they are in our midst. When I retired we knew of 4 different groups and they were all humanoid, but they were all not the kind of guys who could walk up and down the street on a Saturday afternoon without being seen or responded to.

But one of the groups of 4 looks exactly like us in the sense that it could be sitting here in this auditorium next to you and you wouldn't know it. Next to you in an airplane, or a restaurant, or a theatre. They're in our midst, guys – this one group, particularly, is in our midst. Apparently since 1954 when I met them at Morock airforce base, in California; they've been working with us, trying to help us make that transition from adolescence into adulthood. Why are they doing that? Well apparently this is the same group that had a hand in engineering our genetics 10,000 – 100,000 years ago. If you want a little history on that subject, read Zachariah Zitchen, which I suspect most of you are familiar with. His stories are shockingly accurate in the sense that they literally tell the essential story of our beginnings.

They translate these ancient, gneiform tablets from Suma. Zachariah is not the only one – there was a brilliant Englishman by the name of Christian O'Brien, who went home a year or so ago. Christian O'Brien wrote a beautiful, unbelievably powerful book called The Genius of The Few. If you can ever find that somewhere, get a copy. Christian O'Brien said essentially the same thing as Zachariah has said – we were genetically engineered and they have been coming and going and have been in our midst for a hell of a long time. Somebody said to Zitchen one time: "Zachariah, when are they coming back", and he said "whatever made you think they ever left"? I don't think they did ever leave. Now, again, this what I think is a little shocking information here (puts slide on projector).

At least it shocked the hell out of me. Now when I was in Germany at a conference some years ago, I met a Russian cosmonaut by the name of Marina Popovitch, who handed out a few copies to me and a few other guys – Michael Hesseran, a researcher friend of mine. The Soviet FOBOS mission took pictures on Mars when it was out there 15 or 20 years ago. The Soviets sent this fantastic mission to Mars; they named it FOBOS 2 because FOBOS 1 is one of the moons of Mars, 12 miles in diameter; so they named their space mission FOBOS 2 and they took a whole bunch of pictures.

One of the pictures they took, which Michael Hesseran published in his magazine, is apparently a city the size of Chicago. Under the surface of Mars, generating an enormous amount of heat, because this photo was taken in the infra-red. It's in German at the bottom here, but Michael published it in his magazine. From FOBOS 2 – a city under the surface of Mars the size of Chicago. You can see practically the blocks, the streets. So yes, Virginia, there are Martians and yes they are on Mars and some of them are probably here, because we apparently don't look that different from each other.

You'll never see this published in an American newspaper or an American magazine. It had to be published in Germany by Michael Hessemann. FOBOS took another picture. While it was in orbit around Mars, and the story I've been told was that they literally planned to land on FOBOS, the moon. Well, they never got there because while they were in orbit around Mars, this thing came up from the surface of Mars, gigantic in size, and apparently bumped FOBOS 2 and knocked it out of orbit and down it went. So there's somebody up there who says "no, no, no, you can come and peek but you can't stay very long and you're not going to take that many pictures – we're not going to allow it".

Ok, I think that does my photographs for you this afternoon. Now, as I said to you: I'm ticked off – I have this pissed off roster, which is a work of joy and pleasure for me. As I said: politicians at the top – particularly the United States Congress. They're a bunch of clowns; they literally run a circus back there. Theologians are right next, below. Forgive me, I'm not anti-religious, I simply don't like religion because it tends to divide people. It separates people. My god is better than your god. My book is better than your book. My story is truer than your story. And so on and so on and so on. I'm not religious at all. I've studied them all; I've studied Hinduism, I've studied Islam, I've studied Judaism, I was raised a Christian, I've studied Christianity.

I consider the young man from Galilee my best friend, but that's another story that I don't think we have time for me to get into. I went through a series of hypnotic past life regressions a number of years ago, and one of the lives I discovered was in Galilee 2,000 years ago, with him. So I say he was my best friend and he still is my best friend. Anyhow, I'm not anti-religious and I respect the people who are sincere and honest about it, but it does tend to separate people, it divides people, and I try to promote the concept of a spiritual approach to life.

If you human beings had the slightest idea of what you are, my god you're incredible. You are all of you masterpieces. You really need to know what Yogananda said, you need to reach a state of self-realisation; when you recognise that within you burns a spark of pure divinity, and it doesn't matter what church you go to, or what language you speak, or what politics you are, or what colour your skin might be.

That doesn't matter. You are divinity in itself, you are a part of that infinite spark which my friend from Galilee said: the Kingdom of Heaven is within you, and the gang back there didn't really grasp what he was talking about. His truths and his words are as legitimate today as they ever were. And, you guys are getting there. You're beginning to pay attention; you're beginning to wake up. Now, as I said: my pissed off list goes down and we have NASA, the politicians, the theologians, and then there's the American mass of people – the public – what is it the used to say? The great unwashed ... you know – Joe Six Pack .. listen, I have to be kind with Joe because at the moment, bless his heart, he may have lost his job, he may be losing his home, he can't pay his bills; he's got kids to send through school and educate and buy clothes for.

So I'm trying to be gentle with Joe Six Pack because he's carrying a heavy load right now. I mean there are tens of thousands of them out there, all over the country. There may be some of them in the audience here tonight, and you probably know a few of them; and they're damn fine people. So, I'm not trying to fault them too much, the fact that they are not paying attention; I get a little a little ticked-off, oh ... Nascar ... Nascar, netball, football, tennis, golf ... my god, these fixations with these little balls. Sigmund would have a real fine time with that, working that out.

OK, forgive me for wandering. It's important that I get some of this stuff. One of things that I fault the average guy out there is his attention span. He seems to be suffering, the masses of them, seem to be suffering from what they call Attention Deficit Disorder. It's a problem the kids in school have. They can't seem to focus on anything for more than 2 or 3 minutes and then they're off somewhere else. I blame television for that, as well as their parents for allowing them to do that. How many of them sit down and read a book these days? Anyhow their attention span is very, very limited.

The public at large has a limited attention span. For example: Let me get back here, go back a few years. Ah – Werner Von Braun said, in 1959 – now get the year: '59, 5 years after '54; now what the hell happened in '54? Well something unusual happened at Morock airforce base in California, in '54; where an ageing president had an encounter that literally damn near killed him, because right after this event in '54 at Murock, the poor old dude had a heart attack.

He was not able to deal with this thing. Anyhow ... in 1959 a famous Nazi, by the name of Werner Von Braun, who literally built our Saturn 5 program from the ground up; had this to say, and this appeared in several US newspapers. I kid you not – this was published in newspapers. Werner said, in '59, “we find ourselves faced by powers which are far stronger than we had hitherto assumed, and whose base is at present unknown to us. I cannot say more at present. We are now engaged in entering into closer contact with those powers”. Now, wouldn't you have thought that Werner would have been mobbed? Explain this! What the hell are you talking about?! What are these powers that you are referring to?

You're one of our top scientists; you're building the Apollo program for us...? This is in '59..! No major response, it just went over. Ah, 1980. Another German professor, by the name of Hermann Oberg said this, and this was quoted and published in several American newspapers: “We cannot take the credit for our record advancement in certain scientific fields alone; we have been helped by the peoples of other worlds”. Now, did this cause a ripple? Did people say “what the hell are you talking about professor?” People of other worlds .. what? It cries out for answers and there weren't any, and nobody made a deal out of it. Here we have something in 1987.

A prominent, American senator from Hawaii, Daniel K. Inoué, United States Senator from Hawaii; he said this in a committee and it's in the congressional record: "there exists a shadowy government, with its own air force, its own navy, and its own fund-raising mechanism, and the ability to pursue its own ideas with a national interest; free from all checks and balances and free from the law itself". This is in the congressional record. Did that cause a response?

Did people mob the senator and say "senator, what the hell are you talking about – this is dynamite?" Ohh, Attention Deficit Disorder. Alan Hynig said, before he died ... a series of events occurred in New York along the Hudson River some years ago, called the Hudson River Events; where gigantic, triangular and boomerang shaped objects, a mile/mile and half along/across, hovered over the Hudson River moved slowly up and down the freeway there, hundreds of people going up and down, and guys pulling off the road, looking up and seeing this damn thing. It was gigantic.

It hovered over the Indian Point nuclear reactor for an hour, all the alarms went off, all of the security people responded to this thing, and it took place. Not one word from the authorities about this, except some stupid-ass idea that a bunch of guys were flying little planes around at night in formation. The FAA, to its eternal shame, said things like that. Oh these guys were flying around in their little airplanes, you know, in formation at night; never mentioning that this was in total violation of FAA regulations.

As if those little guys in little airplanes could match, or something that's a mile and a half across; a boomerang, a triangle. Attention Deficit Disorder. It goes on, and on, and on. Where am I here? As I say: I tend to wander, forgive me. OK, I've given you your little parable. I talked about David Fronin, I talked about Ben Rich, I quoted Innui, Von Braun, Obermann, the shadow government. Oh, I want to touch upon one other little thing here. There's an amusing situation that has taken place. I find it amusing and I find it tragic. There's a young boy, by the name of Gary McKinnon. Many of you are familiar with this story. Gary, it seems, is a computer nerd, he's a real genius. He's a hacker.

Well Gary happened to be able to hack in to the Defence Department computers here, about a year ago, little over a year now. He hacked in to NASA's computers a little over a year ago, and he came up with some stuff that was dynamite. So what happens is that we find out about it and we got a hold of the Brits and we said "we want that man and we're going to put him on trial and we're going to stick his ass in jail for 70 years". So help me god, the British agreed to extradite young Gary McKinnon to the United States for trial and sentencing.

Now I stand curious to see what kind of a trial they plan to put on for McKinnon. It's got to be a public trial; he's not a US citizen; they're charging him with a violation of our computer security systems and all the rest of it. So this kid's being sent over from the UK to the United States and they're going to put his little butt up in front of a judge and a jury, and charge him with damage by breaking into our NASA and our Defence Department computers.

I and others have said they should hire the kid, for christ's sake, and put him to work! If he can hack into those computers, he must know what the hell he's doing. Ah, but let me just touch lightly upon ... what did Gary McKinnon come up with? Ahhh, what did he download when he hacked into those computers? He apparently downloaded some stuff, packaged up the material and turned it over to a British researcher by the name of Timothy Good. Now Tim, for many of you will know of him, is probably one of the top researchers on the planet. He's a brilliant young man - I say young, he's about the age of my son, about 57 maybe close to 69 – anyhow Timothy Good, apparently, was the recipient of some of this downloaded material from McKinnon.

McKinnon says "I've got this dynamite here". He gave it to Timothy Good with the idea that maybe Timothy eventually could publish it. Now the question is: are they going to try and extradite Timothy Good to the United States and put his butt in front of a judge and jury? We don't know. The Brits I met in Barcelona told me that this story is pretty definite, pretty true. Ah, but what did McKinnon download? Ahh, let me just touch upon a couple of things.

Orders, military orders, transferring a commander from one vessel, to another vessel. Now the vessels were named USSS Curtis Lemay, and the other vessel that this guy transferred to, this commander, was the USSS Roscoe Hilencarter. Now Curtis Lemay as most of you are aware is dead now, one of our top air force generals, who bombed Japan back to the Stone Age, apparently, because of strategic air command. There is a vessel named the USSS Curtis Lemay, and the commander transferred from that to the USSS Roscoe Hilencarter.

Now Roscoe Hilencarter is dead now, but he was a four-star navy admiral who was the first director of Central Intelligence. Now, the guys, the researchers, have gone to the records and there ain't no listing of vessels with those names in the entire US navy manifest. So the question arises: Where is Lemay, the Curtis Lemay; where is the Hilencarter? The inference we're getting is that apparently they're in orbit out there somewhere; and now we're talking about one of the biggest secrets of all time – where your missing trillions have probably been going.

There is a separate space program that you guys are paying for, and they're not telling you anything about it; and as a result NASA is a bit of a joke. We have a special space program and it is apparently known as the United States Aerospace Command. It is a joint service agency and it includes navy, army, air force, marine corps, and it also includes the British. Aerospace Command.

They launch satellites from several different positions on the planet. They maintain, apparently, an entire fleet of vessels in orbit; and they have anti-gravity and zero-point energy, which you guys have a right to and you ain't going to see for another 10 years. Now that's where your missing trillions have gone. You know the story – '98, '99 and 2000 – 1.7 per year for 3 years disappeared off the books. That bunch of clowns in Congress. Do you think there was uproar? Do you think there was a demand for answers – where did that money go? No, forget it.

The day before 9/11, the Secretary of Defence says “we’re missing 3 trillion Dollars. We can't account for it – it's off the books, somehow, we're working on it; may be an accounting error". You know how they are, their speak. George Orwell would be happy with this crowd. Missing. 3 trillion. After the already-missing 1.7 trillion a year for 3 years. There's where the funding is coming for your Aerospace Command, that Daniel Innui is talking about. A separate, shadow government that we have no idea exists; and those guys have got the technology that Ben Rich says is a hundred years beyond establishment knowledge.

Really, if you talk about being pissed off, that kind of information drives me up the wall. I say to you guys, and I hope you're as pissed off about it as I am; we've damn well go to get some answers from these idiots back there, or our country is gone forever. I don't want to see that happen. When I went into the military I signed an oath, to die for that constitution if I had to, and I believe in that constitution. It was a work of genius, the best one of government's ever been devised, and they're trashing it. We're not standing up and defending it enough; we're not insisting that they account for being in office and drawing those big salaries.

Coming to the end of my presentation here, as I said I've been speaking out rather bluntly and rather loudly for a number of years on this subject. As I said it's the biggest story in human history, because it is the story of human history. It's your story. It's who you are, how you got to be here and where you're going. I've told you that I'm outraged at the doomsayers, Oh god 2012 – we're doomed, it's all over – asteroids, whatever, pole shift – we're all doomed.

That Shaman in Germany, all those years ago, he said “you do it all the time, you white skins, you screw it all up”. He said “that's not what the hell the story is”. He said “I'm an expert on my calendar, I'm an expert on my people, and that's not the end of the damn world. It's the beginning of a new age. We look forward to it with anticipation and excitement. The old world is coming to a close and a new way of thinking is coming, and it's going to be so unlike anything that's existed before, we're going to be so excited about the future”. 2012 – that day will come and go.

It will be the end of our long count, but so what. What's important is there is a new age coming, and you guys are a part of it. I say in closing that there are going to be some difficult times ahead, because we are literally in this transition that is a transformative transformation. Not only of the planet, but of the human species. It is primarily spiritual in its nature and that is a very hopeful thing to discuss and understand and accept. As I said – we're phasing out of a phase of adolescence. We are going through adolescence and we are going to reach adulthood.

If you all remember, and I'm sure you do, adolescence was not a hell of a lot of fun. I found it painful as hell when I was going through it, and so did my mother and father when I was going through it. But we're making that transition, and it's hopeful and favourable, and I want to leave you with a remark or two that I think are important. I'm a great fan of Leo Tolstoy. He's one of my favourite authors. He was a mystic, a tremendous script writer, philosopher, and Count Leo Tolstoy said, and I quote "there is something in the human spirit that will survive and will prevail.

There is a tiny and brilliant light burning in the heart of man, that will not go out not matter how dark the world becomes".

I want to leave you tonight with that comment about that spark of divinity that burns brightly within each and every one of you. God bless you and good night

Wow ! carl ! 🤔

Comme tu dis, bloody hard work ! Merci à toi.

Je me permettrai plus tard de séparer en paragraphes (sans rien toucher d'autre) pour faciliter la lecture.

S'il y a de "nouvelles informations", nouvelles par rapport à ce qu'il a exprimé auparavant dans ce fil, on verra plus tard pour une trad des nouveautés.

S'il n'y a pas de trad, c'est que, si vous avez lu tout ce fil, vous n'apprendrez rien de plus.

“On m’entend ?..Est-ce que je peux bouger ? [Puis il dit qu’il ne savait pas qu’ils avaient un rétroprojecteur, il est donc retourné dans sa chambre d’hotel pour récupérer des diapos, ...] J’ai quelques photos à vous montrer, vous les trouverez probablement intéressantes.

Je voudrais aussi dire un mot au sujet du jeune homme qui était là sur ce podium. Rick stolen est très spécial, probablement l'un des plus grands historiens de notre époque et je vous encourage non seulement à acheter et lire son premier ouvrage mais aussi de faire de même avec le second; quant à moi, j'attends le 3ème avec impatience. Ce jeune homme a soulevé le voile sur le secret et sur ce scandale que nous subissons depuis 60-70 ans. Je lui tire mon chapeau, je le connais depuis quelques temps et les jeunes comme lui qui s'intéressent et prennent la relève me font chaud au coeur. Comme vous le savez tous, je suis un vieux de la vieille garde et ...euh..notre nombre diminue pratiquement chaque jour.

Il ne se passe pas une semaine ou un mois sans que j'apprenne qu'un vieil ami vient de disparaître. Ils n'ont pas disparu mais sont retournés de l'autre côté. Ils y sont. Ils sont à la maison maintenant mais ils me manquent et je suis heureux de voir que les jeunes suivent dans leurs pas. Je suis également heureux de vous voir ici car vous êtes la raison de ma présence ici, je ne parle plus beaucoup en public, ça m'est difficile, je déteste prendre l'avion.

En rentrant d'Espagne fin juillet j'ai dû rester au lit une semaine, puis à l'aéroport Kennedy, j'ai été révolté, une vraie disgrâce nationale. Je veux dire, c'est sale, les meubles sont dégingolés,...le service est nul, les toilettes sont immondes...quand elles ne sont pas fermées, c'est horrible de se retrouver dans cet aéroport après avoir connu celui de Barcelone, neuf et moderne. Ah.. ces espagnols sont vraiment autre chose ! Ils ont tenu une conférence, la dernière semaine de juillet qui était...euh...exceptionnelle. 1500 personnes sont venues, des gens étaient debout, quelle conférence !

J'ai eu l'honneur d'y être invité, avec Steven Greer et Stephen Bassett dont je parlerai dans quelques minutes, euh...j'ai été très content avec les espagnols, des hôtes géniaux, ils sont très au fait du sujet et très intéressés. Vous êtes nombreux à le savoir, ce sujet est mon préféré depuis plus de 20 ans. Je suis dans ce train depuis 45 ans mais je parle en public depuis 20 ans. Je parle chaque mois ouvertement et je brise mon serment de sécurité nationale à chaque fois que je l'ouvre. Merci à vous car je ne serais pas là sans vous.

Les gens que je rencontre aux conférences m'encouragent beaucoup car vous êtes non seulement ouverts d'esprit, mais aussi éveillés, enthousiastes, et vous savez tout comme moi que ce sujet est, d'après moi, la plus grande histoire de l'aventure humaine parce que c'est l'histoire de l'humanité. Nous ne sommes pas seuls les amis, et ne l'avons jamais été. Nous sommes membres d'un univers infini, empli de vie intelligente infinie, et nous avons eu des relations approfondies avec des êtres extraterrestres avancés depuis...oh, au moins 10.000 ans et la preuve est plutôt flagrante qu'au moins 1, peut-être 2 de ces groupes différents ont eu leur part d'action dans la création d'au moins 1 génome humain il y a plus de 100.000 ans et cette preuve est écrasante.

Nous allons parler de beaucoup de choses et comprenez bien que j'en arrive maintenant à m'associer au gouvernement pour avoir gardé le silence là dessus. Ils ne savent pas comment ouvrir la boîte de Pandorre, ils ne savent pas comment soulever le couvercle parce que dès qu'ils le soulèvent un petit peu, un tout petit peu: BOUM, tout le truc va sortir et personne n'est près à ça dans le gouvernement parce que cette histoire est énorme.

Vous êtes nombreux à connaître le Rapport Brookings. La Nasa avait donné un contrat à l'Institut Brookings vers la fin des années 50 et le coeur de la question était: Trouver ce que nous devrions faire si dans le futur nous étions à même de rencontrer une intelligence extraterrestre avancée. Ils ont donc travaillé dessus. [Il regarde derrière lui en disant : Merci, merci mon ami, merci.] Ils ont travaillé dessus pendant 3 ans, ont publié leurs résultats en 61 et l'ont transmis au Congrès; la conclusion étant quesi nous devons faire face à cette situation, rencontrer une intelligence extraterrestre avancée, ce serait une bonne idée de ne pas en parler à la population.

Margaret Mead faisait partie du comité, elle avait étudié les expériences des sociétés primitives du Pacifique Sud qui avaient été confrontées à nos cultures avancées et ces sociétés premières s'étaient éteintes à petit feu. La conclusion du rapport Brookings étasit claire: Si nous rencontrions une intelligence ET avancée, nous devrions le taire car sociologiquement ainsi que des points de vue théologique et scientifique, ce serait un vrai désastre.

Ils publièrent donc cette étude qui devint littéralement la politique nationale. C'est l'une des raisons principales qui a scellé le couvercle là dessus une bonne fois pour toutes pendant si longtemps. Comme je l'ai dit, ce ne sont pas uniquement les visites par d'autres types qui viennent de systèmes solaires différents, ni que nous sommes également visités par...d'autres galaxies. Ciel, tout ça est déjà dit. Ils ont aussi appris, et je le savais lorsque j'ai pris ma retraite en 76, que nous avons des visiteurs d'autres dimensions...ils viennent par les stargates, apparemment ils créent les portails et vont et viennent d'autres dimensions et les sociétés les plus évoluées que nous ayons rencontrées sont multidimensionnelles et ce n'est pas étonnant si nos ancêtres ont pris ces types pour des dieux il y a 10.000 ans.

Je pense qu'aujourd'hui certains les prendraient pour des dieux s'ils y étaient confrontés, s'ils voyaient ce qu'ils peuvent faire, s'ils comprenaient leur histoire et leurs capacités. Vous penseriez qu'il faut être un dieu pour posséder une telle technologie. Alors, au fil des ans, je suis devenu patient et tolérant envers les mensonges du gouvernement mais pas tout à fait, pas complètement. J'en ai tellement marre des mensonges gouvernementaux, je ne sais même pas par où commencer. [applaudissements, et il dit: Ah, vous aussi ?]

depuis votre conférence de l'an dernier? et j'ai répondu que le peuple américain avait élu un président noir. Ça c'est quelque chose ! Qui aurait cru que nous élirions un président noir? Je suis du siècle dernier, c'est de la dynamite pour moi. Je suis de tout coeur avec ce jeune parce que...il a un coté attachant, il est brillant, et...je lui souhaite de réussir, j'espère qu'il va y arriver. Il a tellement de pain sur la planche qu'il n'est pas près de divulguer quelque chose. Il n'est pas prêt pour ça. Je ne crois même pas qu'il ait été déjà briefé sur toute cette affaire.

Vous savez tous ce qui s'est passé pour Jimmy Carter qui avait promis à tous avant d'être élu qu'il révélerait toutes les informations ufologiques. Arrivé à Washington, il a eu son briefing de sécurité nationale et il en est sorti les larmes aux yeux. Apparemment le directeur de la CIA lui a dit: Monsieur le Président, votre accréditation n'est pas assez élevée, et Monsieur, vous n'avez pas besoin de savoir. Et le pauvre vieux Jimmy...il s'est replié et n'a pas prononcé un mot sur quoi que ce soit pendant ses 4 années dans le bureau ovale, les promesses avalées.

Qui était le directeur de la CIA? Un type nommé George Herbert Walker Bush. On commence à assembler le puzzle maintenant. Qui est assis sur ce foutu couvercle?

Oh...les gens en Espagne me demandaient constamment: C'est quand la divulgation?

"Ciel...voyez, ça fait des années, des années et des années maintenant. Nous pensions que le gouvernement des Etats-Unis aurait révélé quelque chose maintenant...alors quand? Et je répondais: Attendez, ça n'est pas prêt d'arriver parce que cette histoire est trop énorme. Greer et Basset étaient à la conférence et...euh...je vais vous conter une parabole que j'ai préparée, elle s'appelle les 3 Stephen et l'Apocalypse.

Ça fait religieux n'est-ce pas? Parlons d'abord du mot "apocalypse" parce que c'est encore un mot tellement galvaudé par tellement de monde. La plupart de mes amis fondamentalistes, et j'en ai toujours quelques uns, même après toutes ces années, ne cessent de parler des 4 cavaliers de l'apocalypse. Oh...mon dieu, nous sommes damnés, la guerre, la famine, le fléau, la peste, les 4 cavaliers avancent.

Pour l'amour du ciel ! Les 4 cavaliers avancent depuis 10.000 ans ! La plupart des gens ne comprennent pas le sens du mot 'apocalypse'. C'est un mot grec qui a plusieurs significations: la révélation, la divulgation, le dévoilement, et le dévoilement de quoi? De la Vérité. Et vous vivez en pleine apocalypse. Vous vivez dedans depuis ces 10-20 dernières années et vous vivrez dedans pour encore 20 ou 30 ans. La divulgation ou révélation a lieu en ce moment. Pendant que vous êtes là à respirer, elle a lieu. Mais j'ai eu ce petit aparté avec Greer et Bassett, je les respecte tous deux, ce sont des types bien, je connais Steven Greer depuis des années. Il ne cessent de cogner à la porte. Ils ont ces conférences à Washington et ils n'ont cessé de titiller le Congrès et de secouer le gouvernement et...il faut avoir un comité...et il faut révéler tout ça et...il faut dire la vérité au peuple américain et...bla bla bla.... et excusez-moi, mais le gouvernement leur fait un doigt d'honneur, vous savez, en l'air?

Pardonnez moi Mesdames, c'est plutôt vulgaire mais c'est ce que le gouvernement fait à Greer et à Bassett, ils reviennent en disant: Bon, peut-être la semaine prochaine, peut-être le mois prochain. Oh, une nouvelle administration, oui, nous avons Paul Dester qui a travaillé pour Clinton, nous avons Pinata, qui a travaillé pour Clinton, et nous avons un jeune président qui, je crois, est honnête et transparent et qui va nous dire la vérité. J'ai dit à Bassett et Greer: Ne vous excitez pas les gars, ça n'arrivera pas. Ce nouveau président ne mettra pas ça à son ordre du jour, pas s'il peut l'éviter. Parce qu'il ne va pas avoir toute cette foutue histoire maintenant. Les dossiers s'accumulent tellement à la porte de son bureau ovale qu'il peut à peine en sortir. Alors, qui est l'autre Stephen? ...Ah... un homme jeune à Hollywood*: Spielberg. Et là, où rentre t-il dans ce puzzle? Hé bien quand on me demande si la divulgation va se faire, je réponds: Oui...non..oui...non... et tout le monde dit: Il est gaga ou quoi? La divulgation est en cours depuis un bout de temps maintenant.

....Steven Spielberg a fait un nombre de films. Il a fait ET, je pense que vous l'avez probablement vu. Il...c'était pour les enfants. Il en a fait un autre appelé : Rencontres Rapprochées du 3ème Type et c'était pour les adultes. Puis il a fait une série télévisée nommée Taken un vrai joyau. On me dit, et ce sont des sources fiables d'après moi, qu'il a 2 projets différents dans le collimateur. Un autre film et peut-être une autre série télé sur laquelle il travaille, ça viendra dans les années qui viennent. Ces films ont un effet sur les gens.

....Aucun d'entre vous n'a pas été affecté par ET, c'était mignon, une histoire d'enfants, et je pense qu'aucun d'entre vous n'a pas été touché par la scène finale de Rencontres Rapprochées du Troisième Type quand les types font la queue pour entrer dans le vaisseau et qu'il s'élève. Puis, Taken qui est resté plus de...je ne sais plus combien d'épisodes il y a eu...[un membre de l'audience crie 20]..20? C'est vraiment une série d'envergure. C'était de la dynamite, puissant, bien écrit, et ça contenait tellement d'infos classifiées que je doute que la plupart des gens se soient rendu compte qu'ils regardaient des documents classifiés.

Il y avait aussi à Hollywood un autre type que j'ai eu l'occasion de connaître. Il y a quelques années j'ai eu l'honneur d'être invité à Une conférence MENSA J'y suis allé et ai donc parlé à l'audience de Mensa et l'invité d'honneur était un type nommé Chris Carter, le producteur et directeur de...X-Files, que vous connaissez tous. Après les présentations, les boissons et tout et...je l'ai pris dans un coin et en sirotant nos verres, des jus de fruits bien sûr..euh...je lui ai dit: Chris, vous devez tout me dire. Je regarde votre série depuis pas mal de temps Je crois qu'on en était à la 6 ou 7ème année et je lui ai dit: C'est tout de même impressionnant, certaines de vos histoires sont de la dynamite alors que d'autres ne valent pas un clou, mais c'est une série plutôt réussie, mais je voudrais vous demander quelque chose. Il y a 3 incidents, 3 épisodes de X-Files dont je sais que ce sont des secrets gouvernementaux classifiés Top Secret au plus haut niveau. J'étais au courant, étant de l'intérieur. Je sais que ces trucs sont classifiés, et les voilà, à l'écran, je les vois dans X-Files !

....Je lui ai dit qu'il tapait dans le mille et aussi mais comment vous faites ça les gars? et il a répondu: J'ai quelques bons écrivains et j'ai répondu: A d'autres ...Vous ne pouvez pas me dire que vos écrivains font tout un script de documents hautement classifiés et sont en plein dans le mille alors que ceux-ci sont toujours classifiés. Il a regardé autour de lui avec un sourire de niais et il a dit: Hé bien , on obtient des idées pour les histoires... de plusieurs sources. Je lui ai demandé où. Et il a dit: Je ne peux pas le dire mais on reçoit des idées de différentes personnes. J'ai dit: En tous cas, vous tombez pile poil , ces 3 cas particuliers étaient classifiés et le sont toujours. Et tout ce qu'il a fait, ça a été de me sourire béatement en disant: Vous n'avez encore rien vu...stay tuned Et X-Files a continué pendant 2 années de plus.

.....Ce que je voulais vous montrer, c'est l'implication des producteurs comme Spielberg, comme Chris Carter, idem pour les producteurs et écrivains de la série Stargate, de la série Star Trek, c'est que de temps en temps, des bribes d'informations réelles sont injectées dans les histoires et là, ça n'est pas de la fiction. Ce n'est pas de la science fiction, ce sont des faits de la science mais ils sont introduits de telle façon que vous ne vous en apercevez pas, vous ne le reconnaissez pas. Cela vous fait tilt au niveau subliminal. Et quand je vous dis que la divulgation n'aura pas lieu et que je vous dis que la divulgation a lieu en ce moment, je me réfère à ce programme subliminal, éducatif, qui est en cours et dont vous êtes les cibles.

....Vous recevez la divulgation et des révélations de façons subtiles que vous ne reconnaissez pas et vous allez en recevoir encore plus parce que ce projet a plutôt du succès et les types qui l'ont mis en place sont plutôt contents de vos réactions. Vous allez avoir encore plus d'histoires, certaines tellement science-fictionnelles que vous vous direz: Grands dieux, ça ne pourrait pas arriver !, mais grands dieux ça arrive.

Ben Rich travaillait à Lockheed Martin, avant de partir à la retraite, il a fait quelques confidences à des gens ici en Californie...nous sommes en Californie, pardonnez- moi je suis de l'Arizona. J'ai posé mon sac à Phoenix pour les 6 derniers mois et je m'y perds parfois. Ce programme est en cours. Il est subtil, en continu et c'est de l'instruction subliminale. Et il vous affecte et affecte tout le monde et il y en aura encore. Ils l'ont fait dans SG1, ils l'ont fait dans Star Trek...Kirk, Jean-Luc Picard et les autres sur L'Enterprise, ils ont glissé des bribes de ci de là , où vous pensez Tiens tiens...comme c'est super, c'est dingue ce truc... Ecoutez les amis: Ce n'est pas si dingue que ça.

....Ben Rich a dit avant de partir: Nous avons 100 ans d'avance sur la science officielle C'est un type qui avait le droit de savoir et il avait le besoin de savoir et il était à l'intérieur du programme Nous avons 100 ans d'avance sur la science officielle. Sur ce que l'on apprend normalement à l'université. Rich dit que nous en sommes à 100 ans après. Et il a dit, il dit que nous pouvons ramener ET à la maison. Rich a dit ça au moment de la sortie du film ET.

Maintenant, Ben est mort depuis 10 ans, paix à son âme. J'ai connu un autre scientifique de Lockheed Martin, décédé maintenant lui aussi. Un type nommé David Froney qui a travaillé 30 ans pour Lockheed. Je l'avais invité à Phoenix pour une conférence (Wendle Stevens et moi-même avons monté un show) et Froney est venu. Nous savions qu'il était brillant et nous savions qu'il était à l'intérieur de la recherche à Lockheed Martin pendant si longtemps. Nous l'avons donc invité pour parler à notre conférence à Phoenix et il commençait à se faire vieux...

A suivre...

* Voir aussi au sujet des films l'opinion de Jordan Maxwell \(vidéo anglais\) sur l'industrie de mind control pour tous qu'est Hollywood, créée dans ce but et nommée très justement. Holly wood: le bois de l'arbuste qui donne le houx, arbuste dont étaient faites les baguettes de chef d'orchestre; l'orchestre entier devant suivre et agir selon les indications de cette baguette.

The Quadrillion dollar question: Where did all our money go and why are we in such debt globally? There is a separate space program, which you guys are paying for and they're not telling you anything about it, and as a result, NASA is a bit of a joke. We have a special space program and it is apparently known as the United States Aerospace Command and it is a joint service agency.

That means it includes Navy, Army, Air Force, Marine Corps, and it also includes the British Aerospace Command. It's basically where all the missing 100's of Trillions , sorry Quadrillions went. (our calculator doesn't have enough digits to work it out).

Robert "Bob" Dean worked for NASA for over 30 years. In 2009 he thought it about time to reveal the origins a NASA photographic library "lost footage" and evidence of a USSS fleet (detailing a transfer of admiralty from the USSS Curtis Lemay and USSS Roscoe Hillencotter) captured on film during the Apollo 13 Mission. Nasa maintains they had lost 40 rolls of film with 1000's of shots from the mission documenting this but a Japanese scientist, had a copy of everything from the sixties due to ever space agency involved having copies of the Secret Space Program and public Space Program Missions.
