I have been astonished that men could die martyrs for their religion - I have shudder'd at it.

Just Tibetan monks having a lark after to much fermented milk.

Wow that looks big if it was done by humans they would need more than a few trucks to take the scrapings away.

Woah. That's nuts, lets see some 'normal' persons explanation to this shit n how the fuck it was done with no one noticing a ginormous construction project.

I just seen another post on this, it turns out it is about a mile across and at first i forght the salt, its a salt flat of sorts, was removed to give it that look, it turns out that nothing had been romoved but it has been compressed and the depth is about 2-3 inches, i think with all the sceptics saying crop circles are man made they forght they would show us something a bit different to get our attenion again, I think its awesome and I beleive some sophisicated technology is being used and its not by man seen this posted the other day and found it very interesting then watched the film `Thor`, last night and a similar thing was on the film. (when he got sent to earth left a scar, like a crop patern circle in the desert)..... just got me thinking (not a bad film btw considering whats out at the moment)

Cheers for the vid and pics kris, this deserves more attention just for the huge scale of it, over a mile in diamiter, nothing on mainstream news, to be honest the news as a whole never gives cropcircles attention anyway
