Il Mandala Sri Yantra sul letto del lago in Oregon

Desert Sri Yantra from 9000 feet Copyright 1990 Bill Winterspoon

Nel mezzo del nulla, grazie ad un volo della Guardia Nazionale, si scopre un'enorme incisione nel terreno, sul letto di un lago asciutto in Oregon. Il pilota Bill Miller è stato il primo a vedere l'opera durante un sorvolo il 10 agosto 1990. La grande formazione era larga un quarto di miglia e si trovava a circa 70 km a sud est di Burns, in Oregon, nell'area conosciuta come Mickey Basin. Riportato dalle agenzie di stampa il 14 settembre, venne identificato come un antico simbolo Hindu. Lo Sri Yantra consisteva in 13.3 miglia di linee larghe ognuna 10 pollici e profonde tre pollici. Gli ufologi Don Newman e Alan Decker si recarono sul posto il 15 settembre 1990 e riportarono che il simbolo era inciso nel letto del lago a 3" di profondità. L'area non mostrava segni di tracce di orme o di pneumatici, anche se i pneumatici del loro mezzo avevano lasciato dei marchi profondi 1/4" sulla superficie.

Sri Yantra

The Sri Yantra ("holy instrument") or Sri Chakra ("holy wheel") is a yantra formed by nine interlocking triangles that surround and radiate out from the central (bindu) point, the junction point between the physical universe and its unmanifest source. It represents the goddess in her form of Shri Lalita Or Tripura Sundari, "the beauty of the three worlds (Heaven, Earth, Hell)". The worship of the Sri Chakra is central to the Shri Vidya system of Hindu worship. Four isosceles triangles with the apices upwards, representing Shiva or the Masculine. Five isosceles triangles with the apices downward, symbolizing female embodiment Shakti. Thus the Sri Yantra also represents the union of Masculine and Feminine Divine. Because it is composed of nine triangles, it is known as the Navayoni Chakra.^[1] "These nine triangles are of various sizes and intersect with one another. In the middle is the power point (bindu), visualizing the highest, the invisible, elusive centre from which the entire figure and the cosmos expand. The triangles are enclosed by two rows of (8 and 16) petals, representing the lotus of creation and reproductive vital force. The broken lines of the outer frame denote the figure to be a sanctuary with four openings to the regions of the universe".^[1]

In a recent issue of Brahmavidya, the journal of the Adyar Library, Subhash Kak argues that the description of Sri Yantra is identical to the yantra described in the Śvetāśvatara Upanisad.^[2]

Together the nine triangles are interlaced in such a way as to form 43 smaller triangles in a web symbolic of the entire cosmos or a womb symbolic of creation. Together they express Advaita or non-duality. This is surrounded by a lotus of eight petals, a lotus of sixteen petals, and an earth square resembling a temple with four doors.^[1]

The Shri Chakra is also known as the nav chakra because it can also be seen as having nine levels. "Nine" comes from "Nau or Nava" of Sanskrit. Each level corresponds to a mudra, a yogini, and a specific form of the deity Tripura Sundari along with her mantra. These levels starting from the outside or bottom layer are:^[1]

1. Trailokya Mohan or Bhupar, a square of three lines with four portals
2. Sarva Aasa Paripurak, a sixteen-petal lotus
3. Sarva Sankshobahan, an eight-petal lotus
4. Sarva Saubhagyadayak, composed of fourteen small triangles
5. Sara Arthasadhak, composed of ten small triangles
6. Sarva Rakshakar, composed of ten small triangles
7. Sarva Rogahar, composed of eight small triangles
8. Sarva Siddhiprada, composed of 1 small triangle
9. Sarva Anandamay, composed of a point or bindu

The Sri Chakra, frequently called the Sri Yantra.

The Sri Yantra in diagrammatic form.

The Sri Chakra (called the Shri Yantra) is the symbol of Hindu tantra, which is based on the Hindu philosophy of Kashmir Shaivism. The Sri Yantra is the object of devotion in Sri Vidya.

Sri Chakra, popularly mistaken to be a symbol of Lakshmi, is actually a representation of Lalita Mahatripurasundari, an aspect of Parvati Devi.^[3] Shri does not mean Wealth in this context. The term 'Shri' is used to denote the reverence to be given to this holy Yantra. The prefix 'Shri' denotes that the Yantra is auspicious, beneficent, salutary, benign and conducive to prosperity. The Shri Chakra is often referred as the Chakra Raja which means King of all Chakra which makes it a supreme instrument in the path of spiritual advancement.
