

Jack Van Impe and a 2012 Rapture

I thought a generation was 40 years and added to Jerusalem's Six Day War in 1967 would come out to 2007 or 2008. But when I heard your explanation of the length of a generation coming out to 2019 minus 7 years for the Rapture, or 2012, I said Hallelujah!

Former Royal Ranger Commander

The big error has always been that a generation supposedly was a 40 year period. No, "Forty years was I grieved with this generation" the Lord said in Psalm 95:10, but He didn't say a generation was 40 years. So when you add 40 to 1967 you come out to around 2008 or 2009.

A generation according to Matthew 1:17 and Luke chapter 3 comes out to 52 years both times and we're talking about a hundred and some different groups and generations involved so that's an accurate figure. You add that to 1967 and you come out to 2019 minus 7 years for the Rapture and that comes out to 2012.

The year 2012 has been in recent discussions, but the year 2018 always stays with me as an important year also – 70 years from 1948. Is there any significance to this date?

Keith Soomer

You're very close, Keith but we don't begin with Israel becoming a nation, in 1948. We begin with Daniel 9:24 the Jews capturing Jerusalem, Luke 21:24. A generation is 52 years, Matthew 1:17. Add it to 1967 and it comes out to 2019, minus 7 years for the Rapture – 2012. I hope that's good.

recently, Henry Kissinger declared:

U.S. President Barak Obama has been elected at a unique moment in history that could allow him to create this new world order!

In this video teaching, Drs. Jack and Rexella Van Impe show you the biblical foundation for this coming one-world government, document the great strides that have been made toward it through the European Union, and explain how the critical years from 2012 - 2019 could be the rapidly approaching time-frame for the return of Jesus Christ.
